V LOAN IN DANGER IN NEW ENGLAND

Massachusetts and New England Lag; Quota Hardly One-Fourth Subscribed

New England has raised only 27 per cent of its quota in the Victory Loan.

That startling fact confronted workers today after seven days of earnest endeavor and indicted the New England Liberty Loan Committee to put forth new efforts to make the remaining days count.

Only $102,654,000 has been raised by New England, the last day's subscription having been $11,365,000, of which amount Massachusetts contributed $6,720,000. Vermont still leads New England. It has 51.5 per cent. of its quota, while Connecticut has but 46 per cent, and Massachusetts only 26 per cent.

New England apparently is not the only section of the country that is lagging. Fears were openly expressed by treasury officials in Washington today that the Victory Loan might prove a failure. It was estimated that nation-wide returns now total $914,000,000 or less than one-fourth of the quota, with more than a third of the campaign time gone. Workers throughout the country are being urged to speed up and to impress upon the public the embarrassment the country would face in the event of the loan falling short.

"PINCH HITTERS" BUSY.

Boston has done and is doing its best. Two dirigibles from the naval training station at Chatham were to have come here today to aid the loan. These left Chatham at 8:15 this morning, but due to unfavorable

President Endorses Burleson Plan to Return Cables on May 10; Other Lines Later

By International News Service.

Washington, April 29.—President Wilson has cabled his approval of Postmaster-General Burleson's recommendation that the cable companies be turned back to private ownership not later than May 10 and that the government relinquish control of the telephone and telegraph lines as soon as legislation can be secured from Congress to safeguard the interests of the owners. This was announced at the White House today.

Boston Breathes Easily; Mayor Has Named the Boy

Citizens of Boston, breathe freely again.

After three weeks and three days Mayor Peters has at last named his fifth son, relieving the anxiety of friends who had begun to fear the youngster might go nameless through this vale of tears.

Robeson Peters is the boy's name, Mayor Peters announced today. Robeson, he said, is Mrs. Peters' middle name.

Robeson was born on April 5.

START FUND FOR TESTIMONIAL TO GOWDY

American Opens List So That Fans Can Show Appreciation for Hero

All up for Hammering Hank Gowdy of the Braves!

Here is your big chance to show how much you think of baseball's greatest war hero—a player who gave up a high salary berth in the major leagues shortly after the United States entered the war in order that he might take his part on the battle line in France.

Ever since Hanklin Pankiss Gowdy came home with the Rainbow Division his thousands of friends throughout Boston and New England have been eager to do something to show how much they thought of him. And here is your opportunity.

The American today opens a campaign to secure a fund with which to secure a gift to be presented Gowdy when he is once again back in baseball.

Just to start the ball rolling, the American has contributed $10 to the fund. It realizes that within a few days thousands of baseball fans will be adding their bit to the fund.

Former Congressman Joseph O'Neil has agreed to act as treasurer of the fund. All contributions should be

AMERICANS IN UNIFORM MUST QUIT ITALY

DISCHARGE LAST OF Y. D.

Great Enthusiasm at Ayer as Rest of 26th Division Is Demobilized

The famous Yankee Division passed out of existence today.

The last unit of the New England organization, which won fame second to none in the A. E. F., was demobilized shortly before 4 o'clock.

Scrambling into automobiles, the men hurried from Camp Devens to Ayer, homeward bound, the blare of horns the only sound to mark the passing of one of the greatest bodies of fighting men this country has ever seen.

Continuation of the demobilization began early today, the 102d Infantry being the first organization to go through the receiving station. While they were being discharged and paid, Major-General McCain and Colonel A. G. Lott appeared at Receiving Station No. 1 and watched proceedings from a passageway.

"The system is working wonderfully well," said General McCain. He had barely uttered the words when a military policeman stepped up and ordered him to move on. With a smile the general obeyed the orders of a private.

The only accidents to mar the demobilization occurred on the main road through Camp Devens. In front of the Hostess' House Sergeant M. A. Kane of Motor Transport Corps 478 was struck by an automobile and sustained lacerations of the body and scalp. Later Private Harold G. Litchfield, G Company, 101st Ammunition Train, was knocked down by a motorcycle and his right ankle was fractured. Both men were treated at the base hospital, as was Private Isavid Foley, Headquarters Company, 16th Infantry, who was thrown by a horse.

3 U.S. MEN KILLED IN RIOT

Thirty Others in British Service Injured in London Clash Over White Girls

By International News Service.

London, April 29. A clash between a party of Americans and South African blacks today at Winchester, southwest of London, resulted in the death of three Americans and injuries to thirty.

The fight started when the blacks began paying attentions to white girls.

The Americans interfered and the blacks attacked them with clubs. British troops quelled the riot.

The War Office announced that the Americans were soldiers who had been serving in the British army and were awaiting repatriation. A court-martial has been ordered.

To Buy 4,700 Acres for Permanent Devens Camp

For the permanent War Department cantonment in Massachusetts the government is about to purchase 4,700 acres of land at Camp Devens. This announcement was made today at the headquarters of the Northeastern Department.

Many of the buildings that have been constructed at Devens will not be included in the new cantonment space, it was announced.

The present length of the cantonment is two miles, and its breadth a mile and a half. It has an area of 10,000 acres, with more than 1,600 buildings, twenty miles of made roads, 400 miles of electric wires, sixty miles of heating pipes and there are 2,200 shower baths. Over 34,000,000 square feet of lumber was used in the present buildings.

REPORT BILL TO PREVENT 'L' ZONE PLAN

Trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway will not be able to put a zone fare system into effect if the committee on Street Railways of the Legislature has its way. Meeting at the State House today the committee voted to file a favorable report on the bill of Representative Martin Hays of Boston prohibiting the trustees of the Boston Elevated from putting into operation a proposed zone system of fares.

There were three dissenters, Senator Perrin, the Senate chairman; Representative Bowser, the House chairman, and Representative Baldwin.

Plans for Lynn to have free street railway service received a setback today. The committee on Street Railways voted in report leave to withdraw on the petition of Ralph S. Bauer of Lynn that the city of Lynn be authorized to take over the Bay State Street Railway lines within its boundaries and operate them without charging fares, all cost of operation to be included in the tax levy.

Japanese Refuse Emphatically to Leave Chinese Peninsula They Seized During War

Vienna, April 29.—All persons in American uniform must leave Italy this week, according to information received by the Red Cross here.

Paris reports said that Red Cross workers and all others in American uniform had been instructed to don civilian clothes or leave Italy to avoid trouble.

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.
Correspondent of the International News Service.

Paris, April 29.—A flat refusal to give up their demands to Chinese territory on the Shantung peninsula was made by the Japanese peace delegation to President Wilson today in a conference that was held just before the meeting of the "Big Three."

The Japanese urged President Wilson to agree to their claims regarding the disposition of the Chinese delegates.

American delegates believe that President Wilson is in such a position that his hands are tied. However, it is possible that, if he should agree to the Japanese contentions, he would first issue a public statement explaining to the people of the world that he was unable to prevent the annexation, inasmuch as Japan and Great Britain were tied by a secret treaty.

The secret treaty between England, France and Italy, known as the pact

NINE HUMANE LABOR PRINCIPLES EMBODIED IN THE PEACE TREATY

EIGHT HOUR DAY, COLLECTIVE BARGAINING RECOGNIZED

By International News Service.

Washington, April 28.—Practically the same principles that have governed the awards of the National War Labor Board were adopted yesterday at the plenary session of the peace conference in Paris, for inclusion in the peace treaty along with the League of Nations.

These principles, the text of which was made public through the State Department this afternoon, call upon the nations of the league to adopt, as far as possible, the eight-hour day, one day of rest in seven, the payment of a living wage, equal pay for men and women doing the same work, the right of collective bargaining and the abolition of child labor.

The guiding principle should be, it is set forth, that labor is not merely a commodity or article of commerce.

The principles were submitted by Premier Robert Borden of Canada, as chairman of the commission on international labor, and were unanimously adopted.

TEXT OF PRINCIPLES.

The text of the principles follow:

"The high contracting parties recognizing that the well-being, physical, moral and intellectual, of industrial wage earners is of supreme international import, have framed a permanent machinery associated with that of the League of Nations to further this great end.

"They recognize that difference of climate, habits and customs of economy opportunity and industrial tradition make strict uniformity in the conditions of labor difficult of immediate attainment.

"But holding as they do that labor be not regarded merely as an article of commerce, they think that there are methods and principles for the regification of labor conditions which all industrial communities should endeavor to apply so far as their special circumstances will permit,

OF SPECIAL IMPORTANCE.

"Among these methods and principles, the following seem to the high contracting parties to be of special and urgent importance:

"First—The guiding principle above enunciated that labor should not be regarded merely as a commodity or article of commerce.

"Second—The right of association for all lawful purposes by the employed as well as by the employers.

"Third—The payment to the employed of a wage adequate to maintain a reasonable standard of life as this is understood in their time and country.

"Fourth—The adoption of an eight-hour day or a forty-eight-hour week as the standard to be aimed at where it has not already been attained.

"Fifth—The adoption of a weekly rest of at least twenty-four hours, which should include Sunday wherever practicable.

"Sixth—The abolition of child labor and the imposition of such limitations on the labor of young persons as shall permit the continuation of their education and assure their proper physical development.

"Seventh—The principle that men and women should receive equal remuneration for work of equal value.

"Eighth—The standard set by law in each country, with respect to the condition of labor should have due regard to the equitable economic treatment of all workers lawfully resident therein.

"Ninth—Each State should make provisions for a system of inspection in which women should take part in order to insure the enforcement of the laws and regulations for the protection of the employed.

BENEFITS WILL BE LASTING.

"Without claiming that these methods and principles are either complete or final, the high contracting parties are of the opinion that they are well fitted to guide the policy of the League of Nations and that if adopted by the industrial communities who are members of the league and safeguarded in practice by an adequate system of such inspection, they will confer lasting benefits upon the wage-earners of the world.

The First Naval District has a new commandant. He is Rear Admiral Herbert O. Dunne, who took over the office today from Admiral Spencer S. Wood with appropriate ceremonies.

All the commanding officers and heads of departments and stations in the district were assembled in the admiral's office, Building 149, Navy Yard, today. Three read admirals were were present besides Dunne and Wood. These were Rear Admirals A. S. Snow, H. G. O. Colby and Cameron McR. Winslow.

Admiral Wood complimented his command on its good work under him, and bespoke the same for his successor.

At 9:30 tomorrow morning Admiral Wood will take over the command of the First Pacific Fleet on board the U. S. S Chicago from Rear Admiral C. S. Williams, who goes to the Naval War College at Newport.

U. S. TO TEST NEED OF AUTO DRIVER'S LICENSE

Ralph Moore, driver of an auto mail truck belonging to the Post-office Department, was in the Brookline Court today on a continued hearing. He was found guilty of operating a motor truck in Brookline without a license. The case aroused interest about two weeks ago, when the government maintained that its drivers did not require a license from the State Highway Commission. The case was continued until tomorrow for sentence, when, it is understood, a fine will be imposed and will be contested by the Federal authorities.

G. O. P. LEADERS IN SENATE TO FIGHT LEAGUE

Washington, April 28.—A complete "show down" on the amended League of Nations covenant by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and other Old Guard Republican leaders of the Senate was demanded today by Republican Senators like Borah of Idaho, who announced that they found the modified document as objectionable as the original one.

Senator Sherman of Illinois, who bitterly condemned provisions of the covenant, was among those Republicans who declared "that the time for pussy-footing was passed," and "it was up to the leaders of the Republican majority of the next Congress to let the American people know where Republicans were going to stand on the proposed League of Nations."

A canvass of republican Senators discovered a divergence of opinions as to how the Republican attitude toward the amended covenant should be presented to the country. A number of them expressed the hope that the Republicans would be able to present a united front on a subject upon which so many possibilities hinged, but they admitted they were "at sea" as to just what course of action certain Republican Senators were likely to pursue when the Senate was called upon to act finally on the covenant.

Senator Borah was insistent that Republican Senators all disclose their exact position with relation to the covenant. It was stated that he had not, "abated one jot or tittle his opposition to the United States being committed to a League of Nations in any form whatsoever."

ITALIAN KING PROMISES TO STAND BY HIS PEOPLE

of London, does not figure in the President's attitude on Fiume, because Fiume was not mentioned in that agreement.

DECLARE CHINA UNFAIR.

The Japanese declared at their conference with the President that the secret treaty with Japan was entered into with Great Britain during the war and carried with it a complete cession of the rights Germany enjoyed on the Shantung peninsula prior to the conflict.

The Japanese, furthermore, were emphatic in their contention that China's position is unfair, inasmuch as the Chinese government was willing to allow Germany to continue her leasehold.

(Germany's lease on Kiao-Chau on the Shantung Peninsula was to run for ninety-nine years, with free commercial privileges.)

It was declared by the Japanese that China's objection arose simply because the Japanese troops had taken Kaoi-Chau through force of arms.

President Wilson was said to be very anxious over the Japanese insistence on this point, mainly because he could not count on British assistance. The British delegates are said to be insisting upon the effectiveness of the treaty and are not willing to change their attitude.

JAPANESE DEMAND "REWARD."

The Japanese delegates insist that they have fulfilled all essentials to become members of the League of Nations, and feel that they should be rewarded for "being good." It is impossible to determine at this time, therefore, what President Wilson will feel impelled to do, seeing that Great Britain is definitely pledged and France must "follow suit" in whatever action England carries out.

The German delegation now housed at Versailles numbers about 100. Other German representatives are en route and will probably arrive tonight. It is understood that the arrival of the Germans has resulted in fresh efforts to hurry up the peace proceedings so that the treaty can be framed and signed without a minute's unnecessary delay.

Dr. Schnickling, member of the German peace delegation, declared today that peace would be signed by May 15. The German delegates will meet Premier Clemenceau on May 1. It is predicted here that they will sign almost immediately. French Premier has endorsed President Wilson's position in the Fiume controversy.

GERMAN TREATIES ANNULLED.

The treaty of Brest-Litovsk, which the German government concluded with the Bolshevisti and through which great concessions, as well as territory, were awarded the Germans, has been nullified, according to a clause inserted in the peace treaty to be presented the German delegates at Versailles next Saturday.

All other treaties concluded with Germany since her declaration of war on August 1, 1914, have also been abrogated.

NORTHCLIFFE WARNS ORLANDO.

Lord Northcliffe today editorially warned Premier Orlando that he must read to the Italian Chamber today the note expressing the views of the British and French premiers on the question of Fiume if he wants to avoid trouble.

The Northcliffe statement, published in the Northcliffe Paris newspaper, declared that the note was communicated to Orlando before he left for home and that President Wilson is acquainted with its terms. If Orlando does not inform the Italian people of its contents, the signatories may publish it, Lord Northcliffe said.

Dispatches from Rome say a huge crowd gathered in Capito square as Parliament prepared to go into session today. Prince Colonna, Mayor of Rome, worked the throng into a frenzy in a speech in which he invited them to take oath that the people of Rome demand the immediate annexation of Fiume, the territory awarded Italy under the pact of London, and the cities of Spalato and Trau.

FIUME COUNCIL HEARD FROM.

The Council of Fiume has telegraphed to Premier Orlando that it hands over its powers to the Italian State and King Victor Emmanuel, and has "thus fulfilled Italy's destiny" at Fiume.

Just before the Parliament convened King Victor Emmanuel declared he was heart and soul with the Italian people in whatever they wanted, according to a dispatch from Rome to the Matin.

"I wish what my people wish," the Italian King was quoted as saying. "I shall solidly support any action that Parliament may decide upon."

It is apparent that Paris and London are not informed as to the real feeling in Italy, says a Rome dispatch to the Petit Journal. It adds that 'all Italy is a solid bloc, impervious, it appears, to conciliation."

The Italians are prepared for isolation, battle or death from starvation. No matter what the result may be it will leave grave traces, the Rome correspondents of the Petit Journal believes.

Italians are demonstrating against Americans everywhere, according to a member of the American food commission, who arrived in Paris today from Vienna by way of Trieste and northern Italy.

In describing the effect of President Wilson's statement the American said:

"American Red Cross officers who were given honorary commissions in the Italian army have been notified that all such commissions were cancelled.

The Italian situation was further aggravated today by the reported action of the Italian residents of Fiume voluntarily announcing "the annexation" of the city to Italy.

Travelers arriving here from Northern Italy say that the economic situation is serious and that the Bolshevist movement seems to be making some progress.

Italian sympathizers with Bolshevism have been holding open meetings in some parts of northern Italy, it was said, and have espoused some of the principles of Lenine.

A dispatch from Rome to the Matin quoted the Italian leader, Chiesa, as saying:

"To attach signatures to the peace treaty without Italy could be considered treason. If the city of Fiume is given to Italy, the government might be ready to negotiate for the port."

COST OF FOOD REACHES HIGHEST MARK SINCE THE CLOSE OF WAR

BOWL OF SOUP NOW LUXURY

And Plain Corned Beef and Cabbage Get Into the Banquet Class

Food prices are higher today than any time since the war. Meat prices have increased at least 10 per cent. in the last two months. Vegetables are costing just double what they were at this time last year. Strawberries have increased 15 cents a box and asparagus 10 cents a bunch since yesterday.

Lard has reached the pinacle, and is higher than at any time, either in ante or post-bellum days.

The highest prices of food stuffs prevailing today in the local markets were in poultry. Fresh chickens—roasting chickens, when they can be secured, are bringing 80 cents a pound, and broilers are selling at $1.25 the pound. Frozen broilers at 60 and frozen Philadelphia chickens find a good market at 65 cents; Western chickens sell from 45 to 55 cents. Fresh Western fowl brings 48 cents and frozen fowl 45.

TOP NOTCH PRICES.

Lamb is also quoted at top-notch prices, and lamb chops are today bringing a price that makes them prohibitive save to the wealthy housewife. They are quoted at 65 cents a pound for kidney and 50 for rib chops. Leg lambs at 45, forequarters at from 28 to 30 are also quoted. Veal is bringing from 40 to 42 cents, by the leg, forequarters 35 and shoulders 30.

When you approach the beef stalls, prepare to shiver, for inasmuch of prices are quoted today. Sirloin roasts at 60 cents, rump 65 to 70, first cut of rib 50 and third and fourth from 25 to 40 cents are the regular quotations.

Steaks are quoted at 75 for romp, 65-70 for sirloin and 50 for top of the round. Shin beef has been in high at from 18 to 20, placing the good old plebian bowl of soup in the class of luxuries. Corn beef and cabbage today might be classed in the banquet class, with best varieties of corned beef quoted at 42 cents a pound.

DOUGHNUTS SOON A MEMORY.

All of the pork products have gone sky rocketing. Whole hams are quoted at 42 cents, and ham sliced to fry is 60 cents a pound. Bacon is quoted at 58 cents for the fancy brands, and 55 and 45 for other varieties. Pork chops come high at 45 a pound. Even pork sausage has gone into the list of luxuries, with the price ranging from 35 to 40 cents. Lard today is 42 cents a pound—a price unheard-of even since the Civil War.

Doughnuts will be relegated to mere memories if the present price of lard maintains. Salt pork, too, is 25 cents a pound.

Butter having climbed to as high a perch as even New England pocketbooks can stand, "remains firm," according to one dealer. It is quoted at 75 a pound for print and from 68 to 72 for the tub varieties. Eggs are on the same plane as butter and are bringing 65 for the "nearby" or New England variety.

Western eggs are quoted from 52 to 55 cents. The New England housewife who is watching for eggs to drop to a price where she can afford to "waste" them for next Winter's use, will be disappointed this year, according to the dealers. They have gone down as far as they will—and today are climbing back again.

BEETS ALSO A LUXURY.

Carrots are bringing 8 cents a pound, in stead of 4, as they were a few months ago, and parsnips and onions are also quoted at the new figure. Even plain, plebian beets are aristocratic today, with a price tax of 6 cents a pound attached.

Potatoes at 50 cents a peck for old ones and $2 a peck for new ones show a marked advance. New cabbage at 12 cents a pound, celery at 35 a bunch, spinach at 60 a peck and cauliflower at 50 cents apiece are some of the other quotations.

Strawberries that sold for 45 a box yesterday are 60 today, and asparagus that was 50 has gone up a notch to 60 today. The real aristocrats of the fruit market are oranges and lemons. The former are quoted from 75 to 90 a dozen, lemons bringing 40 a dozen straight.

COHASSET GIRL BRIDE IN NAVY ROMANCE

Molly Fitch Marries Lieutenant Bandura as Latter Stops Between Voyages

Married at short notice between voyages of the bride and groom, slipping away to New York for a two-day honeymoon—all on the spur of the moment, following an engagement of more than a year—is the war romance of Lieutenant Oscar F. Bandura, U. S. N. and the former Miss Molly J. Fitch of Cohasset. Their marriage, which has only just become known, took place quietly on Sunday, and the bridegroom will leave tomorrow on his ship, the U. S. S. Buchanan.

The romance began in schooldays, after which the young man enlisted in the navy. He was with the Atlantic fleet in its trip around the world, and when the war broke out had risen to the rank of petty officer on the U. S. S. Ammen, assigned to foreign service. Promoted to lieutenant, he was assigned to the destroyer Buchanan as chief engineering officer, and the two had planned to be married in the Summer.

The proposed trans-Atlantic flight, however, interfered, as the Buchanan was needed for patrol duty over the course the planes will take, and orders were received last week for the destroyer to leave at once. The sweethearts decided not to postpone their marriage any longer. Judge Avery of the Quincy Court granted a waiver of the five-day law and the two were married by the Rev. Howard Key Bartow of St. Stephen's Church.

Mrs. Bandura is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. William Fitch of North Main street, Cohasset. She is known as a singer and amateur actress and has taken part in many entertainments for service men at Commonwealth Pier and elsewhere. Her brother, Charles E. Fitch, was machinist's mate on the Cyclops when that ship was torpedoed; and brother, William, served during the war as chief radio officer on the U. S. S. Baltimore, which assisted in laying the mine barrage between Scotland and Norway.

Lieutenant Bandura is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bandura of Parker avenue. He has a brother Harold, recently discharged from Company K, 101st Regiment, who was with that unit during all its service overseas.

NEGRO MUTINEER IS SENTENCED TO DEATH

Death by hanging is to be the fate of Robert Neal, the colored seaman who two months ago shot and killed Captain Elmer Black of the three-master Boston schooner Jeremiah Smith and seriously wounded Mate Irving Gray, while the vessel was at Barbadoes.

At his first trial the jury voted eleven for conviction of first degree murder and one for acquittal, but a unanimous verdict for conviction was reached at the second trial, and the imposition of the death penalty followed.

MARTIAL LAW IN INDIANA PHONE STRIKE RIOT

By International News Service.

Indianapolis, April 29.—Martial law has been proclaimed at Linton, Greene County, by Governor Goodrich, as a result of a riot there last night when 500 citizens, mostly miners, stormed the local telephone office and compelled strike-breaking girl telephone operators to leave their switchboard and flee for safety.

The Governor also issued a call for the State militia company at Bloomington, Ind., to proceed to Linton, under arms, at once to strengthen the forces of State troops already there under command of Adjutant-General Harry B. Smith.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 29.—Ten thousand union miners in the Eleventh district, United Mine Workers of America, refused to go to work today because of the operation of telephone lines in Linton, Ind., by girl operators who are said not to be members of the Telephone Operators' Union, according to word brought to the district mine workers' headquarters in this city.

Information here is to the effect that if the strike-breaking operators who are said to have gone back to work again this morning are not removed telephones will be torn from the Linton homes. Three members of the miners' union at Linton and two members of the retail merchants' association of that city called on Stewart, district head of the mine workers here, asking that action be taken by the miners' organization in the trouble. The party that came here said the trouble last night was not participated in by miners, but by a crowd of boys. The men said the miners in the district were in an ugly mood over the situation and serious trouble is anticipated.

BORAH BLAMES CONGRESS FOR BURLESONISM

Declares Laws That Give Postmaster-General Arbitrary Powers Should Be Repealed

By International News Service.

Washington, April 29.—Upon Congress rests "the greater responsibility" for the situation of which the "critics of Mr. Burleson complain," Senator Borah, Progressive Republican of Idaho, declared today in a formal statement commenting on the Postmaster - General's announcement that he was about to recommend to President Wilson that the telegraph and telephone lines be returned to private ownership.

"Congress granted Mr. Burleson unlimited, undefined, drastic and arbitrary powers—granted them in violation of the most fundamental and cherished principles of free government," Borah stated.

"There are provisions in the espionage act more violative of free institutions, more destructive of the liberty of the press and free speech than will be found in any country outside of the most backward, brutal despotism.

"We granted these powers under the guise of war, but no necessity arrested for any such grant of powers. War upon the part of a republic never necessitates the sacrifice of the fundamental principles upon which a republic was organized. After the war was over amendments were proposed revealing some of the worst provisions of these laws. But Congress professed to be greatly alarmed over Bolshevism, and thought the best way to prevent Bolshevism was to create and maintain an autocracy and to continue in existence arbitrary and vicious laws.

"The same thing may be said with reference to the other laws under which Mr. Burleson has been acting. He has not exercised any authority not within the provisions of the laws given off the statute books. They are cruel, arbitrary and oppressive, and if war with every provision of government, and should be repealed."

STATE MILITIA BILL SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

Coolidge to Appoint Officers for Units; Text of the New Law

Massachusetts is once more possessed of a volunteer militia. Today Governor Calvin Coolidge signed the bill which recreates the body that served the State for a number of years prior to the acceptance of the Dick bill which created the National Guard.

As matters now stand there is existant in the State a volunteer militia, though no companies or regiments of it have as yet been recruited. The Governor has the power to name officers for the several units. These officers will serve until such times as companies, battalions and regiments are recruited and regular officers chosen.

It is the intention of the State to create a militia body to rank favorably with that which provided the nucleus for the Yankee Division. Though it has not been definitely established, Massachusetts may have its 101st and 102d infantry regiments, 101st and 102d field artillery regiments, field hospitals and ambulance corps, ammunition trains and all else that go to provide a regularly established military brigade or even a division.

TEXT OF NEW LAW.

The law, which became effective today, follows:

"For the purpose of recruiting the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, the commander-in-chief may appoint provisional officers for such units as he may from time to time create. Such provisional officers, subject to removal by the commander-in-chief, and until their successors are elected or appointed as provided by the law, shall exercise the same military authority over the several commands as is specified in the law for duly chosen officers of the organized militia forces of the Commonwealth.

"Such provisional officers may be appointed before the enlisted personnel of the units to which they are assigned are enlisted and mustered and may be designated as enlisting or mustering officers of the respective units to which they are assigned.

FOR ONE YEAR TERM.

"Enlisted men who have been honorably discharged from the United States army, navy or marine corps or released from active service may be enlisted and mustered without physical examination for the term of one year and the commander-in-chief may prescribe in orders that commanding officers may furlough the enlisted personnel of their respective commands for such periods as the commander-in-chief may determine in orders.

"The commander-in-chief may assign such units as he may create to such armories as he may designate."

The law contains an emergency preamble providing the bill shall be effective immediately. It was recommended by the Governor in a special message last week.

Millions Join in Plea for Women Victims of the Germans

By International News Service.

Paris, April 29.—A plea that all allied women who were brutally attacked by German soldiers in the occupied zones shall be regarded as "wounded in war" instead of being the objects of disgrace is made in a petition signed by five million American women, which was presented to Premier Clemenceau by Mrs. Charles H. Farnham. Mrs. Farnham acted in the name of the committee on the protection of women under international law.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas there is overwhelming evidence that in the present war the armies of the central European powers and of their allies have been permitted and encouraged to commit and, officers and men en masse, have actually and persistently committed every form of offence against women in the countries they have entered;

"Whereas such offences are crimes as well under the laws of war as under the laws of peace, as well as under the common laws of nations as under the municipal law of every nation which is even superficially civilized, and under The Hague convention;

A MONSTROUS INSULT.

"Whereas, such crimes, besides their monstrous insult to the dignity of womanhood, strike at the heart of society, the home. And the deliberate, wholesale, authorized commission of them by the Germans and their allies confronts society accordingly with the alternative: Either acquiescing in its own destruction to allow the violation, the mutilation, the slavery and compulsory prostitution of women and girls to become established by force of precedent as a permitted custom under the laws of war; or, unmistakably to destroy that precedent; and inasmuch as more than 1,000,000 French women have unitedly appealed to the women of all countries to join them in denouncing this infamous and sinister attack on the common life of humanity, we, the undersigned women, therefore, we, the women of the United States, hereby

1—Associate ourselves with the women of France in their protest and appeal, which is annexed hereto.

2—Demand that any officers, soldiers or civilians of the central powers or their allies who have been guilty of any offence against a woman or girl of France or her allies, in the course of the present war, be published, if possible, especially in flagrant and notable cases, and that measures be taken by the nations in conference that in any further wars the commission of these dangerous and degenerate villainies be absolutely forbidden and denounced and adequate penalties with proper methods of enforcing them be carefully provided and promulgated.

3—Declare our own deliberate feelings, judgment and position to be that all women injured by a despicable enemy ought to be treated and regarded, not as ashamed, but as wounded in the war. And we implore our allies to confer that status on them both officially and in the public mind.

"Furthermore, we direct our committee in charge to deliver these resolutions duly authenticated, to each of the governments (including our own government) allied against any or all of the central powers and their allies in the present war and to each of the societies associated in the appeal of the French women, and to arrange so far as possible for their publication in the allied countries."

LAWYER REFERS TO JUDGES AS RASCALS

James A. Keown Twice Rebuked by Judge Loring of the Supreme Court

James A. Keown, representative of Mrs. Sarah C. Shapley in various forms of litigation for years, appeared before Judge Loring of the Supreme Court today to oppose the assignment of an appeal taken by the Attorney-General from the decree of Judge Chamberlain in the Middlesex County Probate Court, who refused to appoint a guardian to take charge of the property of Mrs. Shapley.

Mr. Keown told Judge Loring that the court was without jurisdiction in the pending matter, as the point at issue had been settled in the case of Ensign v. Patterson. Then referring to a decision of the full court which was adverse to Mrs. Shapley, Mr. Keown said:

"In my opinion, it was a 'punk' decision and one which embraces the contempt of lawyers for that court."

Judge Loring rebuked Mr. Keown that his language must be more respectful or he would not be permitted to continue.

Mrs. Shapley, Mr. Keown said, had a right to appeal, as she did, that she had not received justice at the hands of the courts, and to obtain her rights it might be necessary for her to appeal to society. Then if the courts failed to properly perform their functions the people would do away with the courts.

Mrs. Shapley, Mr. Keown said, was absolutely without funds and would starve if it were not for the charity of friends. She had been deprived of money which belonged to her as a result of the advice of certain rascally lawyers, and "I regret to say by judges as well," remarked Mr. Keown.

"A repetition of such language will be followed by an order for arrest, and as Mr. Keown had nothing further to offer, May 13 was assigned for a hearing.

'BUTCH' FLOCKE IS BACK FROM GERMANY

Sergeant From American's Press Room Was in the Thick of It; Returns to Old Work

BY A FELLOW WORKER.

Butch Flocke is back! Yep! Back from Germany—where he was in the Army of Occupation.

Of course, they don't call him Butch Flocke in the A. E. F. He is Sergeant Mechanic K. C. Flocke, 3rd Trench Mortar Battery. Oh, Boy! Some name! Eh? What? But, down in the pressroom of the Boston American he is still Butch to the boys, and they're mighty proud of him, too. Wasn't he one of the first of the 102 members of the American staff to go "over there" to give the Germans lessons in fighting? And wasn't he in the thick of it, in the front line trenches? You bet!

And say! doesn't he look fine! You only have to take one good look at him and the other boys coming back, to appreciate what the Germans were up against; and you begin to understand why they got cold feet when these boys started to give them all they had.

Sergeant Flocke enlisted May 21, 1917, and was sent to Texas for preliminary training. He sailed for France March 25, 1918, where he served continuously until March, 1919, when he sailed for home.

He was released from his army duties last week and will resume his occupation as a pressman at an early date.

HISTORY of the YANKEE DIVISION

by HARRY A. BENWELL

This is the thirtieth instalment of the "History of the Yankee Division," which began in the Sunday Advertiser-American on March 30.

Copyright, 1919, by New England Publishing Company.

CHAPTER XXX (continued)

Once more mange began to run its devastating and disheartening course through the artillery horses. As a preventive measure the manes of all animals in the division were clipped down close to the neck, while tails were clipped to a point three inches below the dock. Shortly before this an order had been issued from the army that all horses infected with mange, or animals suspected to be infected, should be evacuated immediately. The situation now became extremely grave. No stone was left unturned in an endeavor to procure animal replacements at this time, but the demand was so far greater than the supply that the task was well-nigh hopeless. The fact that was always brought forward when a desperate appeal was made for animals was that there were twelve or more divisions that were even worse off than the 26th, certain artillery brigades not being able to move at all. Consequently what animals were being received at the army depots were being sent to them.

NEW STOCK SECURED.

"At last, about October 17, a shipment of French stock en route from Bordeaux was switched at St. Dizier to the Twenty- sixth Division to be unloaded at Baleycourt. This shipment of 144 animals left Bordeaux made up of 96 artillery horses, 32 cavalry horses and 16 mules. One of the horses died en route and 18 horses and 4 mules were evacuated at the veterinary hospital at Trevreary, being in far too poor condition for service at the front. Out of the 101 animals that arrived at Baleycourt, 48 had to be evacuated immediately for debilitation and mange, so that only 44 horses and 9 mules were left to be issued to the division. From this number only 10 of the horses could be considered draft animals, while only 5 of the mules could be considered for heavy draft purposes. The little, light-boned horses and mules, the latter doubtless Spanish, were issued to the machine gun battalions for use in the machine-gun carts. Later the majority of these horses broke down on the march back from the front. The little mules, on the other hand, as usual went through everything, and at the end were still ready for more.

"The above shipment is just one illustration of the difficulties of securing animals at this time for a division at the front. In defence of this shipment it must be said that just previous, on account of the desperate animal situation, telegraphic instructions had been issued to all remount depots to send forward all animals that were even in fair condition.

WAGON COMPANIES SHIPPED.

"Another order issued from general headquarters at this time stripped all wagon companies attached to depots in the S. O. S. to half-strength. As a result of this, the division was fortunate to receive 200 draft mules from one of these companies. These were all excellent animals of American stock and literally saved the day for the infantry supply companies. Shortly afterward there was one other shipment from Bordeaux, mostly horses in poor shape. Besides one or two small or miscellaneous issues of animals, obtained only after the greatest effort.

"The Argonne-Meuse offensive was now at its height. As poorly horsed as the division was, all units were ready to push forward at a moment's notice. Accordingly, especially all animals and vehicles had been moved forward a short distance on a preliminary order, ready to take the road again at any moment. Events now happened in rapid succession. On November 11 the armistice was signed, and on November 14 instead of going forward in the Army of Occupation the division was ordered back to the rear, nine full days the division, with the exception of the artillery brigade, moved straight from the trenches over the road to the eighth training area, east of Chaumont. This was the last and longest hike for the men and animals had been called upon to undergo. They finished through with flying colors—certainly a record to be proud of.

"The artillery brigade, when it reached the area north of Hardecourt, was detached from the division and became part of the army artillery. At the same time all but 400 of their animals were turned over to the divisions that were going forward in the Army of Occupation. The brigade again joined the division in the eighth training area, on the 28th of December.

BILLETED IN MANY TOWNS.

"From the last of November to the middle of January the animals were billeted in the various towns of the eighth training area, some sheltered in temporary wooden stables, and others in the ample stables of the French peasants. The constant rain and mud during this period were the most discouraging features in the care of animals. There were also cases of mange that cropped out here and there among the animals, but these were exercised so that mange generally was kept fairly well in hand.

"On December 4, by orders of the Fifth Army Corps, the division turned over some 300 draft mules and 200 riding horses to the Twenty-ninth and Eighty-second Divisions in the same corps. These divisions, after the signing of the armistice, had been ordered to turn over the greater part of their animals to divisions going forward in the Army of Occupation, and consequently were in a sadly depleted condition as far as animal transportation was concerned. The Twenty-ninth in particular had only some 350 animals at this time.

"The last part of December the Fifth Army Corps sent out notice of a horse show to be held at Nogent-en-Bassigny early in February, in which the division was to participate, along with the 29th and 82d Divisions. While preliminary plans were being made for entries from the division, orders for its return to the United States were received. At the first units were to leave for the embarkation area January 20, all plans for the participation of the division in the show were abandoned. However, four mules and an escort wagon belonging to Headquarters Troop had already been prepared for the event. They made a splendid turnout, and it is firmly believed would have carried off the blue ribbon. Significant of this is the fact that when the last turnover of animals was made to the 82d Division, a special request was made for this team to be turned over ahead, so that it could be entered by them in the coming horse show. There were other equally excellent teams in nearly every other organization, in the division which should have taken a prominent place in the show.

MANY SAID GOOD-BYE.

"The latter part of January, just previous to organizations entraining, all the remaining animals in the division were turned over to the 29th and 82nd Division, as, with the exception of a few private mounts, no animals were to be taken back to the United States. There were many sad separations at this time. Officers gave over animals who had carried them since the division entered the line, while teamsters gave up horses and mules who had borne every hardship with them at the front from Soissons to Metz. Such doubtless would never meet again.

"Of the question were asked: 'Who did more for the animals of the 26th Division than any one else?' the unanimous answer would be, Major-General Clarence R. Edwards. It was not only that he was a true horse lover and possessed a thorough knowledge of animals, but it was the rare faculty that he possessed of making the men take a pride in their animals that did more for them than all the inspect rs in the A. E. F. and there were many of them. There was not a team that escaped his notice, and it was his quick and hearty words of praise that made the driver feel that, after all, his efforts were worth while. It was he who sat down and wrote off the horse order in the Neufchateau area when the first ammais were received, and which was so excellent and complete that it was later republished by G. H. Q. as General Orders No. 65, April 30, 1918, to be followed by all officers and men charged with the care of animals in the American Expeditionary Forces. It was also he who gave unlimited backing to the division animal inspector and remount officers who took up the division, and made their work count for something.

"Great credit should be given to Captain John W. Mahoney, who was appointed inspector of animal transportation by General Edwards on April, 1918, when the division was in the Toul sector, as well as to Captain H. Kendrick, who was remount officer with the division at St. Mihiel. Both of these men, through their conscientious and untiring efforts on behalf of the animals, were of great assistance to the division.

CREDIT TO OTHER OFFICERS.

"The Division Veterinary Corps, although operating often under great difficulties, rendered much valuable service. A great deal of individual credit is due to a number of veterinary officers.

"In compiling this brief history of the animals of the division it is the hope of the writer that it will help the faithful beasts, who did so much towards its glorious record, to receive their share of the praise. They are now scattered far and wide, but the memory of many of them, it is believed, will remain forever with officers and men.

"To Lieutenant-Colonel E. F. Tandy, division quartermaster; Major Albert Gresham, assistant chief-of-staff, G—1; Captain John W. Mahoney, adjutant, 101st Ammunition Train, and Captain William G. VanAlstyne is the writer much indebted for their assistance in the compilation of this history.

"NICHOLAS BIDDLE,
"Captain, Q. M. C., Division Remount Officer."

CHAPTER XXXI.

President Wilson Guest at Christmas Dinner.

The Christmas dinner, described so briefly by Colonel Horsey, was indeed an event for the Yankee Division. Because of their long service, and the fact that they were one of the premier fighting divisions of the American Expeditionary Forces, the 26th was selected by President Wilson to act as hosts for him at dinner.

It was originally planned that he should eat with the enlisted men only, and preparations were begun days ahead of time. However, because of weather conditions, and the fact that it would be necessary for the Chief Executive to wade through mud the plan was changed. It was then decided that the presidential party should dine with selected officers only.

The President arrived at Chaumont early in the morning, and was greeted by General Pershing. The honor guard from the 102d Infantry was on hand, as was the famous band of the 104th Infantry, said to be the best military band in France.

The official party proceeded to Tiumos, near Langres, in automobiles, and found troops of a composite division drawn up at attention waiting for the review. The Yankee Division was represented by Company B of the 101st Infantry, Company K of the 102d Infantry, Company F of the 103d Infantry, Company D of the 104th Infantry, a company of the 101st Field Signal Battalion, Company F of the 101st Engineers and Companies A, B, C and D of the 102d Machine Gun Battalion.

GENERAL PERSHING'S SPEECH.

A reviewing stand, draped in red, white and blue bunting, had been erected, and from this the President conducted the review. The troops were drawn up in a hollow square, under command of General Alexander of the Seventy-seventh Division. On every hand were thousands of cheering French villagers, soldiers, and officers who were not taking part in the ceremonies.

The President addressed the throng of soldiers before the review began, speaking with extreme brevity. His speech followed a few introductory remarks by General Pershing, who said:

"Mr. President and Fellow Soldiers: We are gathered here today to do honor to the commander of our armies and navies. For the first time an American President will review an American army on foreign soil, the soil of a sister republic beside whose gallant troops we have fought to restore peace to the world.

"Speaking for you and your comrades, I am proud to declare to the President that no army has ever more loyally or more effectively served its country, and none has ever fought in a nobler cause.

"You, Mr. President, by your confidence and by your support, have made the success of our army, and to you, as our commander-in-chief, may I now present the nation's victorious army."

Then the President stepped forward and said:

PRESIDENT WILSON'S RESPONSE.

"General Pershing and Fellow Comrades:—I wish that I could give to each one of you the message that I know you are longing to receive from those at home who love you. I cannot do that, but I can tell you how every one has put his heart into it. So you have done your duty, and something more,—you have done your duty, and you have done it with a spirit which gave it distinction and glory.

"And now we are to hail the fruits of everything you have conquered since you came over—what you came over for—and you have done what it was appointed for you to do. I know what you expected of me. Some time ago a gentleman from one of the countries with which we are associated was discussing with me the moral aspects of this war, and I said that if we did not insist upon the high purpose which we have accomplished one end would not be justified.

"Everybody at home is proud of you, and has followed every movement of this great army with confidence and affection. The whole people or the United States are now waiting to welcome you home with an acclaim which probably has never greeted any other army, because our country is like this country. We have been so proud of the stand taken, of the purposes for which this war was entered into by the United States.

HARMONY AMONG ALLIES.

"You know what we expected of you and you did it. I know what you and the people at home expected of me, and I am happy to say, my fellow-countrymen, that I do not find in the hearts of the great leaders with whom it is my privilege now to cooperate any difference of principle or of fundamental purpose.

"It happened that it was the privilege of America to present the chart for peace, and now the process of settlement has been reduced to comparatively simple by the fact that all the nations concerned have accepted that chart, and the application of these principles laid down there will be their application.

"The world will now know that the nations that fought this war, as well as the soldiers who represented them, are ready to make good—make good not only in the assertion of their own interests, but make good in the establishment of peace upon the permanent foundation of right and of justice.

"Because this is not a war in which the soldiers of the free nations have obeyed masters. You have commanders, but you have no masters. Your very commanders represent you in representing the nation, of which you constitute so distinguished a part.

"And everybody concerned in the settlement knows that it must be a people's peace, and that nothing must be done in the settlement of the issues of the war which is not so handsome as the great achievements of the armies of the United States and the Allies.

"It is difficult, very difficult, men, in any normal speech like this, to show you my real heart. You men probably do not realize with what anxious attention and care we have followed every step you have advanced, and how proud we are that every step was in advance and not in retreat; that every time you set your face in any direction you kept your face in that direction.

"A thrill has gone through my heart as it has gone through the hearts of every American, with almost every gun that was fired and every stroke that was struck in the gallant fighting that you have done, and there has been only one regret in America, and that was the regret that every man there felt that he was not in France, too.

"It has been a hard thing to perform the tasks in the United States. It has been a hard thing to take part in directing what you did, without coming over and helping you to do it. It has taken a lot of moral courage to stay at home. But we are proud to back you up everywhere that it was possible to back you up, and now I am happy to find what splendid names you have made for yourselves among the civilian population of France, as well as among your comrades in the armies of the French and it is a fine testimony to you men that these people like you and love you and trust you, and the finest part of it all is that you deserve their trust.

"I feel a comradeship with you today which is delightful. As I look down upon these undisturbed fields and think of the terrible scenes through which you have gone, and realize how the quiet of peace, the tranquility of unsettled hopes, has descended upon us, while it is hard to be far from home, I can bid you a Merry Christmas, and I can, I think, confidentially promise you a Happy New Year, and I can from the bottom of my heart say God bless you."

Wear Smaller Shoes

Most persons must wear larger shoes than their feet really require because of an almost constant puffed or swollen condition caused by congestion in the subsurface blood vessels. But this condition yields quickly to proper treatment and can be easily controlled. The scientific, shrinking and soothing action of a Cal-o-cide footbath shows remarkable results for this purpose, by reducing the normal soldness of the flesh and bringing immediate relief from aching, tenderness and excess perspiring. It penetrates the pores and corrects the cause. Cal-o-cide costs but a quarter from any druggist. Each package contains powerful little tablets that will remove the most stubborn corn. Give this treat to your feet, improve appearance.—Advertisement.

United States Commissioner General of Immigration Hon. Anthony Caminetti Tells Why He Uses Nuxated Iron

To Create Red Blood, Strength and Endurance

Despite His 64 Years, He Is Today More Active and Alert Than Many a Younger Man.

Former Health Commissioner Wm. R. Kerr, of Chicago, Says He Believes Nuxated Iron Should Be Prescribed By Every Physician and Used in Every Hospital in This Country.

HON. ANTHONY CAMINETTI
United States Commissioner of Immigration
WHO SAYS:

Born Jackson, California, July 30, 1855. Admitted to the California Bar 1877.—District Attorney, Member of the California Assembly 20th, 22nd and 23rd Session. State Senator 27th and 28th Session. Member of Congress 1913-15. Presidential Elector on Electoral Vote. Chairman Delegate to Democratic National Convention 1916; received vote of his party for U. S. Senator (15th ballot) at 33rd Session California Legislature 1909. Made Commissioner General of Immigration by appointment of President Wilson. Author of the law known as the Caminetti Law, passed by Congress 1910, under which polygamic mining was removed in California, and Chairman of the California Commission for the relief and reform of the law.

Despite his 64 years and a life which calls him to all parts of the country in all climates and all seasons, United States Commissioner of Immigration Hon. Anthony Caminetti is today more active and alert than many a younger man would be in meeting the strain of his official duties.

In keeping up his robust constitution and tireless energy, Commissioner Caminetti has had recourse to Nuxated Iron as a tonic, strength and blood builder. He says: "In the heat of summer, and the rigor of winter and the debilitating weeks of springtime, I have used Nuxated Iron with unvarying success and satisfaction. After weeks of unrest confinement to office duties, I find in Nuxated Iron the true tonic qualities which help bring one's physical being to that state of fitness which is the desire of every healthy minded man or woman. I therefore feel it commend to whoever feels the need of a tonic restorative for debilitation, exhaustion and overwork."

In commenting upon this, Dr. James Francis Sullivan, Physician in Charge of Medical Clinic (outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, says: "A man of the prominence of Commissioner Caminetti does a great good, to my opinion, by coming out and telling the people about Nuxated Iron. I know of no better preparation to enrich and fortify the blood against the thousand and one ailments which must prevail in so many of the places visited by a man holding his high office. Crowds of immigrants from every land who come to our shores, through Ellis Island, and even through life only barely bring up the average standard of health. Many do not realize that their ailments are due to lack of sufficient iron in the blood. They need a strength and blood builder but do not know what to take, and as a consequence they often go 'dumbbells' all their injury by resorting to stimulants, narcotic drugs and worthless medicinal preparations, while others take some form of metallic iron tonic, in my opinion, should no longer be generally used owing to its great liability to injure the teeth and stomach."

Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon to the Mt. Sinai Hospital of New York, says: "I have found nothing in my experience so effective for helping to make weak, healthy, red blooded men and women as Nuxated Iron. From a careful examination of the formula and my own tests of Nuxated Iron, I feel convinced that it is a preparation which any physician can take himself or prescribe for his patients with the utmost confidence of obtaining highly beneficial and satisfactory results."

For want of iron you may be an old man at thirty, dull of intellect, poor in memory, nervous, irritable and all "run-down," while at 70 or 80 with plenty of iron in your blood you may still be young in feeling, full of life, your whole being brimming over with vim and energy.

As proof of this take the case of Former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential Nominee Charles A. Towne, who at past 68 is still a veritable mountain of tireless energy; Senator Towne says: "I have found Nuxated Iron of the greatest benefit as a tonic and regulative. Henceforth, I shall not be without it. I am in a position to testify for the benefit of others to the remarkable and immediate invigorating effect of Nuxated Iron, and I have recommended Nuxated Iron to all who feel the need of renewed energy and its regularly use of bodily functions."

Then there is Former Health Commissioner William R. Kerr, of Chicago, who is not the strong score year mark, but still vigorous, active, full of life, vim and energy. Former Health Commissioner Kerr says he believes his own personal activity today is largely due to Nuxated Iron. "I have used it," he says, "and find it unsurpassed to be prescribed by every physician and used in every hospital in the country."

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: How long you can work without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE. Nuxated Iron which has been used by Commissioner Caminetti and others with such surprising results and in precisely the same manner as prescribed above by Dr. Baker, is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere, and is supplied by the leading druggists in large quantities. It is dispensed without a doctor's prescription, is unconditionally guaranteed to make you strong, well and healthy or money back, and does not injure the teeth, make one constipated or upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

HOW RHEUMATISM BEGINS

The excruciating agonies of rheumatism are usually the result of failure of the kidneys to expel poisons from the system. If the irritation of these uric acid crystals is allowed to continue, incurable bladder or kidney disease may result. Attend to it at once. Don't resort to temporary relief. The sick kidneys must be restored to health by the use of some sterner remedy which will prevent a return of the disease.

Get some GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. They have brought back the joys of life to countless thousands of sufferers from rheumatism, lame back, lumbago, sciatica, gall stones, gravel and other affections of the kidneys, liver, stomach, bladder and allied organs.

They will attack the poisons at once, clear out the kidneys and urinary tract and the soothing, healing oils and herbs will restore the inflamed tissues and organs to normal health.

All others are imitations. Ask for GOLD MEDAL, and be sure the name GOLD MEDAL is on the box. Three sizes, at all good druggists.

Home Wrinkle Recipe—Astonishing Results

Both startling, astonishing results come from a very simple, harmless, home-made wrinkle-remover, there's no excuse now for anyone wearing those hateful marks of age, illness or worry. No need feeling shy, worthless pastes, creams, nor "skin foods" which don't feed the skin. No need rubbing, massaging, steaming—senseless methods which expand and loosen skin and underlying tissue, aggravating a wrinkled, flabby condition. Better, easier, surer, is the scientific saxolite formula. Thousands have successfully tried it—thousands freed of wrinkles, enlarged pores, sallow cheeks, double chin—thousands younger looking, happier.

All you need do is to dissolve one ounce of powdered saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel and bathe your face in this. The effect is almost magical. Even deepest crow's feet completely, quickly vanish. Skin becomes firm, smooth, fresh looking—bears no trace of treatment except that of enhanced beauty. # CIVIL SERVICE FAULTY, SAYS WHITE

Administration Expert Would Reorganize Board in Report to Legislature

Supervisor of Administration Thomas H. White filed his report today on the activities of the Civil Service Commission. He points out the frailties of the present system, and recommends:

That the Civil Service Commission be reorganized with a director giving his full time to the work of the department and two commissioners with advisory authority to be paid by the day for actual service.

That the director with the approval of the commissioners be authorized to organize the department, to appoint a deputy and other necessary subordinates and to fix their salaries.

That the reorganized department give particular attention to development as recruiting agency for all offices and positions under its authority.

That the civil service law be revised to define more definitely the authority of the commissioners, particularly their authority to make investigations as to the operation of the law and its enforcement and requiring fees with applications for postons paying more than $600 annually.

FAULTY ORGANIZATION.

The report says that the organization of the commission itself is faulty, in that none of the commissioners are required to give their entire time to the work, or are allowed salaries sufficient for such service.

That the officers and employes of the department are not properly organized, because they are divided into two practically independent subdivisions, and because a large part of the important work of the department is performed by employes inadequately paid for the quality of service expected.

LAW IS CONFUSING.

That the civil service law is incomplete and indefinite in many particulars, and the law, rules and regulations taken together are so voluminous that they cannot readily be analyzed and understood.

That civil service examinations are in many instances taken by persons who do not intend to enter State employment, their object being to get practice in lines which they are studying, and thus the work and expense of the department are increased.

TEMPERANCE SOCIETY GOES OUT OF BUSINESS

Judge Loring of the Supreme Court today authorized the New England Church Temperance Society to turn over to the Episcopal City Mission about $2,000. The society for twenty-five years maintained coffee rooms on Pitts street, Columbus avenue, Broadway Extension and Northampton street, and furnished games and amusements to men and women to keep them away from saloons. Since the recent death of its secretary, Rev. Mr. Hilliard, the work has lagged and it was deemed expedient to transfer the work to another organization.

APPEALS SENTENCE FOR LARCENY AND RECEIVING

On charges of receiving stolen goods and larceny, Abraham Swarts, twenty-eight, of 64 Arlington street, Chelsea, was given a combined sentence of eighteen months by Judge Dowson today, as follows: For receiving shoes valued at $48, property of the Eagle Shoe Company, three months; for receiving 400 pounds of nails, valued at $24, property of Litchfield & Co., Charlestown, three months; for larceny of shoes valued at $72.80, property of the Globe Shoe Company, six months, and for receiving 1,200 pounds of shoe leather, valued at $780, six months. Swarts appealed and was held in $1,000.

BEVERLY TURNS OUT TO WELCOME SOLDIERS

Beverly, April 28.—Accompanied by the Mayor and other city officials, the Beverly men came home from Camp Devens today. It took twenty-one automobiles to carry the discharged Beverly contingent. On the party's arrival in town all the church and fire bells were rung. There will be a reception at City Hall in the evening. Already more than 100 T. D. men have secured employment in the United Shoe Machinery Company's shops.

AUTOIST APPEALS FROM ONE MONTH SENTENCE

Enrico M. Fucillo, twenty-four, of Cottage Street place, East Boston, charged with operating an automobile which knocked down Fred McAdams of No. 7 Trenton street, East Boston, April 13, was today sentenced in East Boston County by Judge Barnes to one month in the House of Correction. He appealed and was held in $300.

Cadets Parade May 29.

The annual street parade of Boston School cadets scheduled for today, is postponed to May 29, according to information received at the office of the Boston School Committee.

J. LESTER ALLEN of Dorchester, victim of seaplane accident in the Charles River.

Hundreds of Bostonians and visitors to the city today thronged to the banks of the Charles River Basin to view the spot where one man was killed and another injured in a seaplane accident near the Cottage Farm bridge. The plane fell from a height of 150 feet into the river when its engine stopped. The spot was today a Mecca for sightseers.

The dead man was J. Lester Allen of No. 89 Waldeck street, Dorchester, who had paid $15 to be carried on the trip as a passenger. The plane was driven by Ensign W. Elliott Nightingale of Boston, a former naval aviator. He was injured, but is recovering at the Boston City Hospital. Nightingale made desperate efforts to rescue his passenger, but was handicapped by his own injuries.

TO INVOKE I. & R. ON SAVINGS INTEREST

Simon Swig Leads Movement for Popular Verdict on New Trust Company Law

Whether when you put your money in the savings department of trust companies, you shall draw interest from the time of deposit, or whether the banks are going to make you wait until a certain time before giving you interest on the money, Simon Swig, ex-representative, is going to ask the aid of the initiative and referendum to decide.

Last week in the rush and hurry incident to the Yankee Division parade the Legislature put through a bill which makes it illegal for banks to start interest periods on deposits except at semi-annual periods.

Mr. Swig, who is vice-president of the Tremont Trust Company, does not think this is a square deal for the depositors. He is going to call the power of the initiative and referendum to his aid to protect the people. He has filed a petition for the initiative and referendum on the recently passed law with Secretary of State Langtry.

His charge is that the law was hurried through the Legislature under a deceptive title, and that the people themselves are not aware of the true intent of the bill.

The petitioner claims that the law is framed solely in the interests of the bankers, and that its enforcement would mean a hardship for the people who deposit with the trust companies.

The petition is preliminary to the securing of signatures of 15,000 legal voters of the State which will be necessary to insure the appearance of the referendum upon the ballot.

Committees are to be formed in various parts of the State and scores of men will tour the State, talking in opposition to the bill.

Names on the petition to be presented to the Secretary of State include Asa P. French, former United States district attorney; David I. Robinson, treasurer of the Essex Company; Attorney John P. Feeney, Gilbert H. Noyes, director of the R. H. White Company; Henry S. Potter, Jr., treasurer of the Manhattan Market, Cambridge; Brigadier-General Frederick E. Pierce of Greenfield, Attorney George T. Shannon and Henry Roberts.

A contract calling for grading and construction work on the Ripley Playground, Dorchester, has been awarded to Joseph Meltzer & Company at $10,321. Work will start immediately.

MACHINIST RECRUITS TO GO TO HAMPTON ROADS

Orders from Washington have been received at the Navy Recruiting Station, No. 51 Cornhill, by which candidates for the navy machinists' school will be sent to the naval station at Hampton Roads, Va., instead of to Charlestown, S. C., as heretofore. The change is made to give the men preliminary training while assembling them for the next class at Charleston.

The school gives a twelve-month course in practical and theoretical training and prepares men to become machinists and marine engineers. Men between eighteen and thirty-five with mechanical ability and some slight knowledge of the machinists' trade are eligible for this school. Thirty young men have been sent to the school from Boston in the last four weeks.

ODDS OF 2 TO 1 THAT U. S. WILL START FIRST

Rockaway Beach, L. I., April 29.—Odds of 2 to 1 that an American aviator will be the first to cross the Atlantic were offered today by mechanicians attached to the United States naval seaplane station here, following word that Uncle Sam's flyers will start within less than ten days.

They based their wagers on reports that the two British flyers, Hawkey and Raynham, now preparing to jump off from St. John's, N. F., are taking desperate chances in order to beat the Americans across. Trial flights made by the N. C.-1 yesterday convinced men attached to the station here that at least one of the naval seaplanes is certain to make the crossing without misadventure.

By noon today 171 cities and towns in New England had reported to the New England committee that they had either secured or over-subscribed their quota. Sharon has gone substantially over its quota of $64,500, and now is working to secure a community honor flag.

New Hampshire towns to finish early include East Kingston, Fremont, Grantham, Plymouth, South Hampton, Goddard, Westworth and Temple.

In Vermont, Arlington, Stockbridge, Pittsham and Williston went over early.

$33,375,000 FOR BOSTON.

Boston's seventh-day subscription was $2,198,000, making a gross total of $25,550,000 and a net total of approximately $25,000,000. The detailed report follows:

| | 7th day. | Total. |
|---|---|---|
| Maine | $441,000 | $3,626,000 |
| New Hampshire | 559,000 | 5,445,000 |
| Vermont | 66,000 | 1,750,000 |
| Rhode Island | 450,000 | 5,850,000 |
| Outside | 2,425,000 | 27,000,000 |
| Massachusetts | 6,720,000 | 69,085,000 |
| Total | $11,265,000 | $102,954,000 |

Among the recent large subscriptions were:

Fall River Five Cents Savings Bank, $750,000
New Bedford Five Cents Savings Bank, 400,000
Dedham Savings Bank, 150,000

May 3 will be Liberty Loan Night in Boston theatres, when campaigners of the Women's Liberty Loan Committee of Boston will make a special drive. Between the acts the leading man or leading woman of the company will speak for the loan, and at each theatre fifteen to twenty women in Liberty Loan hats and sashes will canvass for pledges. Fireman helmets will be awarded on the basis of subscriptions or sales.

Among Boston Trade Committees the wool trade is reported in today with $2,704,500 from three days' diverse different items.

The Boston navy yard, with a quota of $250,000, has secured its honor flag and it had at noon over $450,000 in subscriptions.

SAILORS HELP AT RALLY.

Sailors and the band from the U. S. S. Kentucky gave added interest to the flying squadron today as it started from the Copley Plaza. A truck full of young "Miss Libertys" with Mrs. William P. Merrill in charge, speakers and a collection of war trophies, and proceeded directly to Postoffice Square, where it met the band and the sailors and after holding a rally at the outdoor booth conducted by the Boston Women's Committee, visited every other outdoor booth in the downtown district. There were three speakers, Sergeant Wilson, Sergeant Noble and Adjutant Charles Siebert.

The Boston Trades Committee has awarded industrial honor flags to: William P. Claflin & Co., Inc., No. 238 Summer street, 81 per cent.; Boston & Maine Railroad, Federal auditor's office, 100 per cent.; assistant Federal auditor's office, 83 per cent.; office of superintendent of transportation, 78 per cent.

Greater Boston Belgians are conducting a campaign to place a Victory Note in every Belgian home in New England. The committee includes Edward Blockel, chairman; F. L. Hulens, secretary; Modeste Alloo, Nicolo Vos and Aug. de Menleuaer. A mass meeting will close the campaign at Liberty Court Friday evening, May 2.

Tonight is Greek Night on Boston Common. The program was arranged by Boston citizens of Greek birth and descent.

The Woman's Liberty Loan Committee of Brookline will erect a band stand at Coolidge Corner for concerts and speaking. Mrs. Thomas M. Claflin, chairman, reports that at the close of yesterday the total subscriptions for Brookline were $103,650.

WOMEN PLAN MEETINGS.

The April half of the Victory Fifth campaign is to be brought to a close in Metropolitan Boston with a number of meetings under the auspices of its women's committee, arranged through the speakers' bureau. Miss Marjorie Prayer, acting chairman. The West Newton committee, Mrs. Warner Marshall, chairman, is to have a meeting in the Red Cross rooms tomorrow afternoon, speakers Miss Marjorie Reynolds, Corporal Gleason, is to speak for Belmont Woman's Committee, Mrs. James Mac Kenzie, chairman, in Waverly Town Hall on Wednesday evening. Sergeant George Beer will speak at the First Congregational Church, Chelsea, for the Chelsea Woman's Committee, Mrs. Grenville Bell, chairman.

Brokers Depreciating Liberty Bonds Under Investigation

Washington, D. C., April 29.—Officials of the Department of Justice and of the Federal Trade Commission, it was learned here today, are conducting an investigation into the activities of a class of Liberty Loan brokers alleged to be depreciating Liberty bonds of the third and fourth issue by making false statements as to their market value.

The complaints, which come in from all over the country, say needy bond holders forced to sell often find these brokers sneak disparingly of the value of the bonds and exact extortionate fees on the ground that unusual effort must be exerted to find a market for them.

Officials said here these reports were being carefully investigated and if the allegations are sustained a vigorous prosecution of the offenders will be instituted.

ASK FOR 200 JEWS TO AID LOAN DRIVE

Committee Calls for Extra Volunteers to Aid in Victory Campaign

The Liberty Loan Jewish Committee has planned a vigorous campaign for the second week of the drive.

An extensive seige of the Jewish wage earners and persons of moderate means will be made in order that there may be a wide distribution of Victory Notes.

Max Mitchell, director-general of the Liberty Loan Jewish Committee, issued a statement to all Jewish laboring men and women of Boston which states "The Victory Liberty Loan brings to us not only a duty, but an opportunity. In addition the buying of Victory Notes is but a loan to the government, a safe investment which brings ample returns."

Members of the Jewish committee today began a canvass of the factories and stores of this city. A special call for 200 volunteer workers has been sent out by Dr. M. M. Eichler, secretary of the Jewish committee. These workers are needed to continue the house to house canvass in Greater Boston.

"V" Loan Sidelights

Westhampton has equaled its reputation as the banner town of Hampshire County in again going over the top first of all the other towns. Every town in the county is working energetically to do its full share in the Victory Fifth. Enfield has secured $2,900; Easthampton, $1,900; Williamsburg, $12,000, and Northampton, $6,000.

Smith College, whose war service has been notable, is conducting a Liberty Loan Drive this week, opening with the new war film "The Price of Peace."

* * *

Mrs. Barrett Wendell, chairman of the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee of Massachusetts, conducts a county conference on Liberty Loan workers in Taunton today. In the morning she is to address a meeting in the Old Colony Club, and in the evening she will speak in Irving Hall. The meeting is under the auspices of the Belmont Woman's Committee of Metropolitan Boston, of which Mrs. James MacKenzie is chairman.

Upholding the traditions of Gloucester men in times of their country's need, the women of Gloucester are making a strong showing in the Victory Fifth campaign. Mrs. Robert T. Babson, chairman for Essex County, reports that up to Saturday night the Gloucester women had secured subscriptions amounting to $60,000.

* * *

For greater convenience and better space the Massachusetts Committee for Women of Foreign Birth or Descent, Mrs. Sidney Hooper, chairman, has decided to change the place of meeting for its entertainments from Liberty Court to Parkman Bandstand, which is just a short way from Liberty Court.

Returns from three cities and twenty-two towns of the 237 cities and towns of Vermont to the acting State chairman, Mrs. Charles A. Simpson of Rutland, show a total of $756,000 secured in subscriptions for the "Victorious Fifth" by the women of those localities for the week ending April 27.

* * *

The Norwegian booth has been moved to the corner of Tremont and West streets, where it is presided over by young women in peasant costumes.

Boys and girls of Essex County are being given a special opportunity to help the Victory Liberty Loan "over the top." The Woman's Liberty Loan Committee of Essex County, Mrs. Robert T. Babson, chairman, offers two valuable prizes, one for the best composition written upon a special subject selected by them and one for the best "Victory cheer." This plan is expected to do much toward stimulating patriotism and arousing and creating enthusiasm during the campaign.

* * *

Tonight is Greek Night on Boston Common in behalf of the Victory Liberty Loan. The program arranged by the Boston citizens of Greek birth and descent begins at 7 p. m.

* * *

Quite a number of cash bonds of the $50 and $100 denomination have been received at the Boston banks and will be available to purchasers as long as they hold out from full time on.

* * *

Oliver Ditson Company has taken $10,000 worth of Victory Liberty Notes, $25,000 of which are credited to New England.

GRAVES LIGHT-KEEPER, FEARED LOST, RETURNS

After an all-day struggle with a fast running tide and choppy sea, during which he was believed to have been lost or drowned, Thomas Bailey, the keeper of the Graves light, came ashore at his home in Swampscott completely exhausted. Meanwhile a search was being made for the missing keeper by the Hull and Swampscott coast guard stations. Bailey had started to scull his open boat from Swampscott to the Graves when the combination of wind and tide turned him out to the open sea. Not until late in the evening after the tide had turned was he able to make headway to shore.

BRYAN'S HAT IN RING FOR CHURCH MODERATOR

William Jennings Bryan, former Secretary of State, is a candidate for moderator of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. The last general assembly of the Presbyterian church amended the laws of the church so that laymen could be elected to the higher offices formerly held exclusively by ministers. This will open the door to a lay moderator. The office of moderator is the highest gift in the Presbyterian church. The new moderator is to be chosen at the sessions May 15 to 22. If Mr. Bryan is elected among the 1,500,000 Presbyterians of the general assembly at St. Louis over whom he will have jurisdiction will be Woodrow Wilson.

FREIGHT TERMINALS OPEN NOW UNTIL 5 O'CLOCK

Boston railroad freight terminals have been ordered to keep open until 5 o'clock weekdays, and similar orders soon will govern other freight houses throughout the State, according to announcement by the transportation committee of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce. Much credit is due W. H. Chandler of Boston, chairman of the special shippers' committee appointed by the Massachusetts Public Service Commision, according to the chamber transportation committee, for the victory shippers have won. An attempt is being made to return New England transportation facilities as rapidly as possible to a pre-war basis.

Your Uncle Sam provided his boys with

COFFEE

Our government sent 3,000,000 fighting men abroad. And, to keep them physically fit, it sent millions of pounds of coffee.

BRAVE, clean, lithe, sturdy fellows, they were. Clear of eye, steady of nerve, strong of heart,—splendid physical specimens. "The finest soldiers in the world",—has been said of them. And they proved it!

Coffee lovers, they were—almost to a man. Coffee drinking had been their habit all their lives. They were practically raised on it, in the true American fashion. And they were not deprived of it!

A most careful diet was planned in order to maintain health and strength. While bread and beans and beef were needful, there was one item recognized as absolutely indispensable—coffee.

So—whatever else they had, our boys had their coffee,—plenty of it, four times a day! It cheered and comforted and encouraged them. It helped them do their job,—and do it well. Who shall say how grand a part coffee played in this great war?

WALDORF THEATRE—The bill composed of five vaudeville acts and motion picture subjects offered yesterday at the Waldorf Theatre afforded a wealth of pleasure. In the vaudeville there were offered Elisabeth Nelson and the Harry Hoys in a medley of songs, dances and comedy. Marston and Manley in a comedy skit, Dewitt, Burns and Terrence in "The Awakening of the Boys." On the screen there were shown the latest news pictures, a comedy, and Priscilla Dean in "The Silk-Lined Burglar."

"CALLUS CORNS" LIFT RIGHT OFF

Doesn't hurt a bit to lift them off with fingers

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses and "hard-skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off.

When Freezone removes corns from the toes or callouses from the bottom of feet, the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

'DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR

Stop dandruff and double beauty of your hair for few cents.

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of "Danderine" at any drug store for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair will come out and you can't find any dandruff. Your hair appears soft, glossy and twice as thick and abundant. Try it.

Kidneys Cause Hysteria

Some folks overwork; some overeat; some over drink, and many do all these things and neglect the excretory organs. Nervousness ensues. Constipation sometimes, but most often the delicate function of the kidneys become disordered, followed soon by congestion. Then headache, neuralgia, rheumatic pain, backache, and lumbago set in. Frequent urination sometimes beyond control. The voided liquid being dark and foetid odor, and its passage followed by burning, smarting spasms of pain, even hysteria being often the result unless the greatest of all kidney medicines, is taken to regulate, allay and neutralize the irritation of the organs.

Balmwort Tablets

GREAT KIDNEY MEDICINE

Sold by all druggists.

Alkali Makes Soap Bad for Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mutsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in—about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

"WHY MARRY" PLEASES AT PARK SQ.

By FRED J. McISAAC, Dramatic Editor.

"Why Marry?" a three-act comedy by Jesse Lynch Williams, was presented at the Park Square Theatre last night by the Stevens. The piece has enjoyed a large measure of success in New York and Chicago. Last night's audience appeared to indorse the verdict of those cities.

"Why Marry?" is a dissertation in dramatic form after the manner of George Bernard Shaw. The theme, as well as I could gather it, appears to be that marriage is not respectable and really high-minded couples should do without the ceremony.

To be sure the hero and heroine are married in the final scene but they are trapped into it by their contentual natures, and even then they and they actually are tied together they consider it rather a dirty trick.

Like Shaw, Mr. Williams tries to carry his play by bizarre characters and spirited and incisive dialogue rather than by lively situations and action.

Thus we meet John, an overbearing and offensive millionaire, who considers everybody his inferiors; Uncle Everett, a whimsical and gentle old lawyer bubbling over with the milk of human kindness; Lucy, John's thoroughly cowed wife; Cousin Rose, a clergyman in hard luck; Res, a weasel faced youth, well gilded, whom John wishes for a husband upon his youngest sister, Jean, and Jean, an ingenue, who marries a man she doesn't love to get away from her domineering brother. The heroine is Helen, a college girl, a clever bacteriologist, who is in love with Ernest, a scientist, whom she has been assisting.

The trouble is caused by Helen's objection to a marriage of convenience her willingness to live with Ernest, but not to marry him. Naturally this scandalizes the rest of the crowd, and the arguments pro and con carry through three acts.

Mr. Williams' characters are rather ingenious, but they lack the striking originalities of the folks in a Shaw play—any Shaw play. The dialogue is brisk, well turned, frequently clever, full of rather labored epigrams, but it falls short of the wonderful humor of Shaw's lines. Of course Shaw is unique, and no living writer can stand comparison with him, but Mr. Williams appears to have taken him as his models hence the criticism.

When "Why Marry?" started out two seasons ago it included in its cast Arnold Daly and the late Nat Goodwin. Daly flitted very soon after the opening. Goodwin was removed by death a few weeks ago. Their places are admirably filled. In fact the only actor whom I should take severely to task is one who has been in the cast since the start, Edmund Breese.

American self-made millionaires are often unpolished diamonds, but even in a play of Shavian character there is no excuse for Breese. His John is a Bowery yegg, even to the tough manner of thrusting out the hands. Ernest Lawford, as Uncle Everett, gives a very entertaining performance while Leonard Doyle, as the eccentric, almost sane sons of his sententious remarks.

Louise Randolph, as the victim of Mr. Breese's very rough husband, was in many respects the most natural and best expressed performer. Agnes Darntee did well with a bit.

The last night's performance was a testimonial to Fred Wright, manager of the house. There were numerous floral contributions and Mr. Wright received many congratulations.

MODERN AND BEACON THEATRES —There was abundant contrast in the stories of the two photoplays that were shown for the first times in this city yesterday at the Modern and Beacon Theatres. Wallace Reid was shown pictured in "The Roaring Road," a screening of the story of like title made popular in a leading magazine. It is a story of automobiles wherein a young man obtains a position as manager for an aggressive manufacturer. Mr. Reid has a role in which he is thoroughly at home. The accompanying photoplay showed Mabel Normand in "The Pest," in which she is pictured as the supposed daughter of a shiftless couple who impose all kinds of laborious duties upon her.

ST. JAMES THEATRE—Dorothy Dalton, the popular star, is showing at the St. James Theatre the first three days of this week in "The Homebreaker," also the famous Bennett comedy, "The Little Widow," Pathe News and five standard acts of vaudeville. The last half will bring Charlie Chaplin in the best trench comedy ever made, "Shoulder Arms."

BOSTON THEATRE—"The Way of the Strong," a story of the Northwest, starring Anna Q. Nilsson, is the feature picture at the Boston Theatre this week. The vaudeville acts include many comedy teams, Harvey, Henry and Grayce in "On the Golf Course," bring forth many laughs.

Coming Events

MAJESTIC THEATRE — Richard Walton Tully's play "The Bird of Paradise," will be the attraction at the Majestic commencing next Monday night, May 5. This spectacular production of life in the Hawaiian Islands is one of the stage's most popular offerings, for it is now in its eighth year of unabated success, with no signs of waning interest from the paying theatregoers. Florence Rockwell heads a lengthy cast of players.

FOLLIES BACK FOR BRIEF VISIT

The Follies returned to Boston at the Colonial Theatre last night for a two weeks' engagement. It will be remembered that last Autumn their run was interrupted by the closing of the theatres, due to the influenza epidemic. That was before the armistice. Therefore, in the meantime, reworded in parts, returned to fit League of Nation days, the Follies returned.

Of girls ravishingly pretty, set forth in the creations of dressmakers who are artists, no less; scenery poetic and then a little more; of quips and cranks and wanton wiles old Milton used to tell about, of all these are the Follies made. Tears repetitious to say more.

Perhaps as great a hit as any in the Follies created for amusing day was Will Rogers' monologue on Wilson and the Paris doings. Judged by the laughter provoked as the Sumorist twirled the lassoo and characterized the peace league, they were not all Democrats in the audience. And judged by the laughter, Will Rogers is his own excuse for being. He needs no excuse by day.

Ann Pennington, again in her demure little smile and dancing shoes, pleases as she did when the war was still on; Eddie Cantor, W. C. Fields, Frank Carter, Billie Ritchie and Gus Minton were eagerly applauded; they are favorites as they ever were. But this particular brand of Ziegfield folly as Marilyn Miller, Allyn King, Mildred Richardson, the Fairbanks Twins, Doris Lavant and Carolyn Erwin.

Among the songs particularly quaint and pleasing were "In Old Versailles," and "A Stranger," this last was better for the sentiment and the setting than for the singing. Again there was the melange of patriotism cooked up by actors in khaki or flags of all the allies. Again the delightful melange gave much pleasure, and the tired business men, as on their third and his fat wife, not to mention many others, gave all the evidences of appreciation.

—BUY VICTORY NOTES—

GAYETY THEATRE — Real burlesque of the spectacular kind was seen at the Gayety yesterday before two capacity audiences when the Max Spiegel military revue entitled "Cheer Up, America," opened its engagement. The company is a big one and the principals were real stars in their respective roles. The piece is given in two acts with five scenes in each act.

ORPHEUM THEATRE—The excellent bill of vaudeville presented yesterday at Lowe's Orpheum Theatre was headed by the U. S. S. Carolo Trio, three young naval veterans just returned from overseas service, whose songs and stories had all the freshness of life in the wartime navy. Others on the bill were Charles Deland and company in the one-act comedy, "Back to Buffalo"; Mahla Pearl, clever young songstress; Foley and Marcino, versatile entertainers; La Petite Jennie and her company in a pleasing dance offering, and the Three Lordons, aerialists. On the screen there were shown the latest news pictures, a comedy, and Enid Bennett in "The Law of Man," wherein she is pictured as a young sculptress whom a scheming architect seeks to make his dupe.

GLOBE THEATRE—Two photoplays of unusually good quality, together with the news pictures and a comedy make up a most pleasurable bill at the Globe Theatre yesterday. The first showings were given of Enid Bennett in "The Law of Man," a story rife with human interest and mystery. A young sculptress is lured by a scheming architect to a distant town, there to be attacks her. The other photoplay showed Violet Palmer in the comedy, "Ginger," which takes its title from the leading character.

Plays That Remain

MAJESTIC THEATRE—The last week of that reminder of the domination of melodrama, of former days "Seven Days Leave," began at the Majestic Theatre last evening.

WILBUR THEATRE—The merriest of farces, "A Sleepless Night," by Jacques Barrie and Gustav Blum, has caught on with whirlwind indications of success at the Wilbur Theatre.

COPLEY THEATRE—Sir Arthur Pinero's notable drama of life in an English city, "The Thunderbolt," began its second week at the Copley Repertory Theatre last evening.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—It looks now as if "She Walked in Her Sleep," George Broadhurst's most amusing farce, would run the season at the Plymouth Theatre, where, last night, it began another week.

SHUBERT THEATRE—The Dolly Sisters, Harry Fox and their merry associates continue to dispense song, dance and laughter at the Shubert Theatre, where they began the fifth week of their engagement last night.

TREMONT THEATRE—"Flo-Flo" began the second week of its Boston engagement at the Tremont Theatre last evening. Possessing in bounteous measure the requisites that go to make up a most pleasurable musical show, this attraction has found instant favor with Boston theatregoers.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE — Laurette Taylor in "Happiness" entered upon the second week of the engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre. All who have witnessed this performance are of the opinion that she was well worth waiting for.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—Over five hundred Shriners were in line in the lobby of the Little Building yesterday morning when the advance sale of seats opened for "Shriners' Night" at the Boston Opera House on Thursday, May 8th, when the members of the Aleppo Temple of the Mystic Order will gather to see Noble Al Jolson perform in "Sinbad." Friday night of this week, May 2nd, will be another notable event, "Tech Night," the students of Technology having bought the entire house for that evening. Next Saturday night, May 3rd, will be Liberty Loan Night when Mr. Jolson himself will conduct a "drive" for the Victory Loan campaign. On Thursday afternoon of this week, Virginia Fox Brooks, Forrest Huff and twelve beauties from "Sinbad" will appear at Jordan. Marsh Co's store during the noon hour to make in the Victory Loan drive at that place on that day.

TREMONT TEMPLE—"The Heart of Humanity" entered upon the final fortnight of its engagement at the Tremont Temple yesterday. There is such a plenitude of appeal in the spectacle that it would be safe to predict that the engagement could be extended indefinitely, but the other cities of New England have been presenting their claims for its showings, with the result that the stay here had to be shortened.

CROOK PLAY IS PRODUCED AT ARLINGTON

"The House of Glass," a thrilling drama of crooks by Max Marcin, who wrote the famous "Cheating Cheaters," was presented for the first time in Boston by the Arlington Square Stock Theatre last evening to the usual full house. It received more than the usual number of curtain calls.

Miss Robinson and Mr. Ayres played the leading roles. They were well rewarded for their effort in putting over this exciting play. The heroine, Margaret Chase, a New York stenographer, engaged to marry a chauffeur he "the name of James Eggles, is led to believe that he has wealth. On the evening of their trip across the continent to be married, he is caught by the police, charged with being a crook. Stolen jewelry is found in the possession of the heroine, resulting in her arrest. She is convicted on this circumstantial evidence.

A parole is granted her and after eight years of evasion of the police, we find her happily living in a western city married to a prominent railroad man. In New York they recognize her and she lives in constant fear. However, all ends well and she is forgiven.

It is staged by Mr. Masson, who always makes sure that everything is running smoothly. Next week will be "The Shaughraun."

LILLIAN SHAW A HIT AT KEITH'S

Lillian Shaw heads the vaudeville bill offered this week at B. F. Keith's Theatre. Miss Shaw's impersonations, distinctly original and thoroughly pleasing, are very cleverly "put over." Her songs, written by Blanche Merrill, are a decided deviation from the usual character numbers.

The Seven Bracks, billed as "An Athletic Machine Gun," offer an athletic act of unusual excellence. Their offering is new in this corner of vaudeville and an appreciative audience is its best recommendation.

George and Paul Hickman, blackface comedians, offer a lively sketch, filled with laughs. Both are clever impersonators.

The Mellette sisters, Helen and Rosalie, offer a dancing act much above the average. Their offering is new and is pleasing. Lew Pollock, song writer and composer, at the piano, offers musical numbers well worthy of applause.

Maurice Burkhart, in his "Joy and Gloom," offered a real novelty in vaudeville. His songs are new and novel.

Emmet Devoy and company, in which Maude Richmond is included, offer a one-act playlet entitled "Mother's Diary." It is well acted. Devoy takes the leading part and is acknowledged to be an actor of merit. He is ably supported by Miss Richmond. Miss Edna Garrett and Sam Lowell.

Rose and Moon offer a dancing and singing act, both original and entertaining. They are accomplished dancers, and the songs they offer are well rendered.

Lady Alice's Pets, a miniature animal act, and the Kinograms, a news feature, complete the bill.

JUST LIKE MARK TWAIN, DENIES HE'S DEAD

Private Davis of Bangor, Reported Killed in Action, Read Own Obituary

Bangor, April 29.—Private George Davis of Bangor, whom Maine papers recently reported "killed in action," says he absolutely refuses to be a dead one. Like Mark Twain, he has read his own obituary in a home paper and found out what a fine chap he really is. He has sent home a photograph taken in France at Chaumont, and, like Twain, he says that the report that he is dead is very much "exaggerated." He admits, however, that he has been gassed, shell shocked and wounded in the leg by a machine gun and was unconscious twenty-four hours, but made a quick recovery and was up and at 'em again in short order.

He was amused one day when a pal handed him a home paper in which he read an account of his death and praises for his heroic sacrifice. Much as he believes in newspapers, he could not quite swallow that, and at the

U. S. GIVES TRAINING TO 27,314 DISABLED HEROES

Washington, April 28.—The Bureau of War Risk Insurance, working in conjunction with the Federal Board for Vocational Education in the matter of assisting disabled men to obtain such vocational retraining as may be needed by these men, has made a report on 27,314 claim cases filed with the Bureau of War Risk. The figures are interesting as showing the distribution of injuries. Tuberculosis of all kinds is reported in 22 per cent. of the whole, and is the greatest single cause of disability. Wounds necessitating amputation of hands, feet, arms, legs, fingers and toes total only 5 per cent., while wounds not necessitating amputation and miscellaneous wounds total 31 per cent. Nervous diseases and disorders are 5.2 per cent.

CASSIDYS ASK NO QUARTER IN WILL FIGHT

Fierce Family Quarrel Developing in the Suit for Millions in Maine

Bangor, Me., April 29.—The Cassidy will trial, in which four of the heirs of the late John Cassidy, Bangor millionaire, are trying to obtain their portions of the entire estate at once instead of at the rate of $10,000 a year, is developing into a fierce family battle between the four contesting heirs and James W. Cassidy, trustee of the estate and executor.

No quarter is given and none is asked in the struggle to get the additional wealth. Everything of a derogatory or uncomplimentary nature that can be brought out of the family history to discredit the cause of the other side is made public in court by the lawyers and witnesses of both sides.

Today attorneys for the trustees, in an effort to prove that the youngest, John F. Cassidy, was no sufficiently competent to take care of the fortune of $1,000,000 that would be his in case the will is broken, mercilessly questioned him and forced the young man to admit that he was not exactly a mental paragon.

LIMIT TO EDUCATION.

John testified that addition and subtraction were the limits of his educational attainments in arithmetic and he had never quite understood fractions. He had studied geography some, but said that history was his favorite subject.

John testified that he has at present $2,000 a year now, a sum advanced to him by his brother Jim, and also said that the same amount was given to each of the other heirs pending settlement of the estate. Pro rata $1,000 he had been able to save only a little, he admitted. He replied in answer to a query from the attorney that he did not buy new his check account, but that his father's manager, Harry Torrens, did it for him. All he did was to sign the checks. He said that he knew nothing about keeping a check account straight.

BOUGHT FAST AUTOS.

While his father was in Bangor John always kept within his means, but admitted buying fast automobiles, when the elder Cassidy left town. This testimony was adduced in an effort to prove that the youngest Cassidy would buy whatever suited his fancy if he should ever get the million dollars that is his.

His direct examination was conducted by Mr. Cocker. He gave his age as 30 years, and said he had always been in poor health. He said six years of age when a team had run over him, and he never had been well since. When he was 12 or 13 years old he had a serious illness. He was about 14 years old when his mother died. He went to school when he was about 16 years old, going to the public schools for about two months and then to private schools after his mother's death. Witness said:

"I left Orono after I had a ... with father about it. I was about 21 years old when I went to Orono. Father said I would have to leave off going through college. I told him it was a great mistake, as I was getting along well. He said Jim objected, because it cost too much money.

"I used to drive with father a good deal after that. I talked with him, asking if I could go into the grocery business. He said it was a good idea and he would talk it over with Jim. Jim and father were up in the office for some time, when father came down he looked pale. That night I asked him about the matter and he said: 'Jim objects in your going into business. It seems all bosh.'

MEMORY FAILING.

"Before my sister Mary was married I drove daily with father. I noticed a change in his condition, his memory failing. On Essex street one day he asked what time it was, and I said it was quarter past two. He said: 'Quarter past four.' I couldn't make him understand (a was only quarter past two. He asked me to turn and drive fast to the North, and when we got there the horse was all lather."

Witness referred to the statements about Dr. Murphy made by Jim, already in evidence, and said he had heard similar remarks about other men who had called at the house—that they were only after the money.

"Five or six weeks before Mary was married to Dr. Murphy I was in the smoking room with father when Jim came downstairs and said to father: 'Are you going to allow her to marry Dr. Murphy?' and father said: 'Be quiet, Jim; be calm; be quiet.' Jim repeated: 'Are you going to allow her to marry Dr. Murphy?' Father was all pale and trembling, and said we all went out. 'He's gone,' I said. 'Let him go,' He said. 'Oh, John, you don't know.'"

THIRD LOWEST BIDDER GETS CITY CONTRACT

The usual custom of awarding a contract to the lowest bidder was altered today when an order for 17,000 worth of iron castings was given to the third lowest bidder, the Davis Foundry Company of Lawrence.

This was done so the fact that this concern can supply the shipments by auto truck and wagon. Also the new castings require closer supervision, and if the contractor submitting the lowest bid was awarded the work it would cost the city considerable.

By BERT FORD.
CHAPTER XXI.

Copyright, 1919, by the American Press Association.

In warfare, death is appraised as the "supreme sacrifice," but, most cases until we were near death, cases when death would have been easier and the more welcome route.

I came across men whose lives had been seared and shriveled by gas. I met men who had been blinded and others hopelessly crippled. I saw one youngster whose boxer jaw had been blown away and who had harnessed his left arm into the cavity where the bone was slowly being grafted to serve, when amputated and shaped, as a new jaw.

Medical experts will have interesting things to tell the profession and the public about the herculean operations performed under the stress of battle.

MADE BIG SACRIFICE.

I mention these things to show that Americans who went overseas to fight for democracy and the honor of our flag and nation often made bigger sacrifices and suffered more physically and mentally, than did men who were instantly killed. The sufferings of many soldiers abroad were multiplied by news from home during the influenza epidemic that parents and wives and other near relatives had died.

Frequently it became necessary to break this news to men who were in critical condition themselves. There were weeks when almost all the news we received from home concerned the deaths of persons who had been close friends and neighbors. The "flu" caused upward of 83,000 deaths in the United States, approximately 10,000 more than the total deaths in the American Expeditionary Forces due to battle, disease and accidents.

No worries were mutual.

I picked up news at times in the most out-of-the-way places and under the most singular circumstances. I heard in a dugout one Sunday night in the Argonne forest of the deaths of Postmaster Murray and his wife and of Eddie Martin, baseball writer for the Boston Globe, and his bride.

Who's Who in the 26th Division

Captain Joseph W. McConnell of Company A, 101st United States Infantry, was born in North Adams, Mass., in June, 1878. He graduated from Drury Academy and Williams College, from the latter in 1898. He worked his way through college teaching night school while at Williams and working on the Boston Post as baseball editor while attending Boston University Law School. He was admitted to the bar at Boston in 1901 and practiced a year at Fitchburg before associating himself with his brother's law firm in Boston.

He became a member of the First Corps of Cadets in 1912, but shortly before the Mexican border trouble resigned and became a lieutenant in the 9th Regiment, M. V. M., with which he went to the Mexican border in 1916.

Subsequently he was promoted to be captain of A Company. He was the first officer of the National Guard to lead a company to the trenches. In May, 1918, his company while holding a front line trench, suffered a raid from the Germans in which a third battalion, under Lieutenant Harriman, outnumbered three to one, stubbornly held their ground with severe losses. Lieutenant Harriman was killed.

At Chateau-Thierry in July Captain McConnell was in command of the first battalion as acting major. When his battalion was surrounded at Trugny Woods he succeeded in saving it with small loss and reached his objective.

While leading his men in the St. Mihiel advance he was struck by a shell and instantly killed. He was buried near the crossroad between Vaux and St. Remy. His company, after their relief from the advance, erected a fence and cross. Later his body was moved. It is now buried in the American Cemetery at Troyan Sur Meuse.

On August 21, 1917, three weeks before he sailed for France, Captain McConnell was married to Mary C. Clexton of Roxbury. He is survived by her, a brother, James E. McConnell of Boston, and his sisters Catherine and Mary, both of whom are teachers in the State Normal School at Fitchburg.

I had been harvesting news at advanced P. C. an afternoon, shelling was brisk and sunshine had brought unusual air activities. German and American flyers fought several duels over our heads.

I wanted news of a morning operation from a New York unit, and, crawling into a dugout, was surprised to meet Captain John F. Cronin of South Boston, formerly attached to the old Ninth Regiment. Captain Cronin had clippings which his wife had sent to him from Boston newspapers. I read the details of Postmaster Murray's death and of the double funeral of Eddie Martin and his bride.

I saw men go into battle after they had received word that wife, mother, father, brother, sister or sweetheart had died of influenza. It is difficult to imagine a subtler ordeal or one that so surely tested a man.

MAJOR LEE HEROIC.

I don't know a man in the Yankee Division who gave more to his country in time of need, whose sacrifice was greater than that of Major Christopher Lee of the 104th Infantry.

"Chris" is big and handsome. He had everything to live for, a fine home and a wife that was a real pal. As captain, he commanded I Company on the Mexican border. He went to France a captain, and, after a course at the general staff school, became adjutant of the 51st Infantry brigade, under Brigadier-General Traub. Just before the St. Mihiel drive he was transferred to the 104th Infantry and got a battalion, still a captain. He won the commission of major on October 1, for gallantry in action.

Major Chris led the first assault company in the Bois de Hauiont so effectively that he smashed the German positions. He was seriously wounded in the groin and suffered other hurts from a shell that burst very near him. While in a hospital back of the lines, suffering great pain, he was died a victim of the "flu."

GRIEF OVERPOWERING.

Mrs. Lee had been one of the leading spirits in a group of young Boston women who had been active in my welfare work. She had done much for the regiment and for the American soldier in general and had worked zealously on a committee that planned a welcome for the homecoming troops. She and several others on that committee died suddenly, died before they had the thrill enjoyed by the thousands who welcomed the troops home and who saw the parade of the Yankee Division.

It was some time before they dared break the news to Major Lee and when he finally learned it he lay out on a French hospital, his grief was overpowering. He is not to be crippled for life, his wife is gone and his home broken up and he is still an invalid in a Boston hospital. He spent months in a hospital abroad.

The tax of war for him was heavy. On the day of the divisional review he was driven out to Camp Devens in a limousine by a Red Cross girl and was given a rousing welcome by officers and men. Company I men nearly lifted the roof off the barracks cheering their former gallant commander. "Chris" came over as a casual and landed in New York, after Colonel Logan's regiment came home. Captain Hugh Maguire, formerly regimental quartermaster, who directed Mrs. Lee's funeral and who was best man at their wedding, met Major Lee at the dock.

Major Lee was awarded a distinguished service cross by the American army and a Croix de Guerre by the French for bravery. They didn't come any pluckier than "Chris."

MAJ. FOLEY TO BE HONORED.

Everybody in the Yankee Division was proud of the showing made by Major Thomas F. Foley, who as captain had led the "Emmet Guards" of Worcester. "Tom" was a police inspector before going to war and I understand the city fathers of Worcester are planning to create the office of deputy chief of police as a special berth for Major Foley as a reward for services rendered the country.

"Tom" might have evaded service because of his age and the fact that he is the father of three children, but he was in the National Guard when the call came and had served during the tour on the Mexican border and he said he was eager to serve as a legacy and inspiration to his sons. That's the kind of a daddy the Foley children have. And he never has to show unconcealed and stronger than he has been in years, pride in distinguished service crosses pinned on his tunic.

COOL IN ACTION.

Major Foley had the reputation of being as "cool as a cake of ice" in action. His quiet bravery made him conspicuous in many engagements, especially at Chateau Thierry, where he led his battalion with a dash that was the talk of the sector. Tom was as courageous as he is good-natured. He lives at No. 44 Lovell street, Worcester. When decorated with a distinguished service cross he received the following citation:

"For repeated acts of extraordinary heroism in action near Vaux, July 15-22, 1918. Throughout the four days of the advance Captain Foley (this was prior to his promotion) commanded and led his battalion with exceptional bravery and judgment, thereby inspiring his men. When strong resistance was encountered he personally went forward and reconnoitered the terrain under heavy machine gun fire, and, on July 15 and again on July 22, he personally led his battalion in a successful attack."

So wrote, in part, Major Winchester in that date in May when Major Tom led the members of G Company march in the home parade. Nothing in the road for them. The fellows say Danny McCormack, the lilliputian actor, famous as Jeff in Mutt and Jeff, and for years mascot of the Emmet Guards, could have had no end of fun and hiding places over there with so many "rabbit holes" handy. He warned me, as Worcesterites on the border, Danny, German shells are hornets were thicker than soft ventilation drill.

Major William J. McCarthy of South Boston, was another Al fighter. He is connected with a safety razor concern in private life. Mac was one of the handsome men of the division and a glutton for work. His zeal was contagious. He jumped from captain to major while the division was in the Toul sector.

CAPTAIN McCONNELL KILLED.

One of his hardest fights was the fight-to-Weavre raving in the St. Mihiel push in which battle his cousin, Capt. Joseph McConnell, was killed by a shell. With German batteries hurling death from the heights, Major McCarthy and his men advanced and fought the Boche at close quarters. They fought hand-to-hand five hours while the 102nd Infantry stood

Of course, there is every kind of Philippine underwear, but it is acknowledged that it is only one firm, long established in the Philippine Islands, that have the best trained embroiderers. It has taken them many years and they were the pioneers of the industry. However, they were liberally backed by one of the greatest mercantile houses in America, with the result that today the embroidery done by this firm's workers excels all others. They use the finest materials, the best cut and the most beautiful designs of any underwear that comes from the Philippines. The entire product is sold way ahead and is confined to a few of the best houses in America — among them, Chandler & Co.

BRAVES HOPE TO CHANGE LUCK TODAY

Stallings Still Cheerful Over Outlook and Blames Breaks for the Defeats

Sooner or later the Braves must win a ball game, and Skipper Stallings, the athletes of his flock, and the army of Boston fans were in hopes that this was to be the day.

The Giants didn't look unusually ferocious on their first attack against this port, and the Braves did show a few signs of the heretofore lacking hitting strength.

Not a break has come the way of the tribe yet—in four bouts where the least flicker of luck would have turned over the result.

"It's like that often in baseball," explained George T. Stallings, who isn't as downhearted as might be expected. "Your team gets to losing games, and you can't win. You just have to sit and take it day after day.

"You see inferior baseball beating you out. Everything you try goes wrong, while everything the other fellow does hits the nail right on the head.

STILL HOPES FOR BREAK.

"It's as unexplainable as winning streaks, it just happens. We've dropped four now that we should have had in our pockets, and it's about time we started winning some.

"As I've said before we're going to upset a lot of them, and a little thing like a few lushes won't change my mind."

That's the managerial side of it, and the way the players feel. They have a lot of luck coming to them, and they're so anxious trying to produce it that they're stumbling on their own fee, so o speak.

Trying too hard oftimes causes as much mishap as not trying enough, and that, perhaps, explains these Braves right now. The Giants didn't look a bit better yesterday, all in all, than our local performers, but they won the contest.

BARNES MAY SHOW TODAY.

Jake Northrop, who has been kept out of making a start by the million and one kinds of bad weather we've had lately, was prepared once more to answer the call if his name went up on the boards.

So, too, was Arthur Nehf, a pitcher the Giants never did bother a great deal. Our old friend, Jess Barnes was the logical McGraw selection, as Benton chunked a full game out in the pen while Causey was tottering yesterday.

Introducing the perenial alibi—

Them Braves, as R. Lardner's hero would put it, should of won yesterday, only them Giants beat 'em.

Said Giants won, 5 to 4, the game being, as the above lines intimate, something very much in the nature of a gift. The only good thing about the pastime was the finish. The local team found a little of its lost punch, runs on its collective bean, bunched out three runs, and came within one of tieing it up.

That was an encouraging sign—all alibi stories must have plenty of encouraging signs, as the fan well knows. But it didn't arouse any great storm of joy in the breast of G. Stallings, who thus early in the season has had to watch his ath-a-letes suffer some four entirely unnecessary lickings.

TOUGH ON RUDOLPH.

Neither did it much please little Mister Rudolph, who tossed another very fine game, and then had to see it handed to the lions, meaning the Giants. Had everything gone as it should the battler most likely would have collected a lone tally.

While on the same line, it ought be noted that the Braves had a million and one chances to poke off runs, but didn't come through.

They flashed, once, in that inning, when it was just a bit too late. It wasn't their own fault, however, that they didn't stage the revolution one frame earlier, showing that Al is still on the job.

Arthur Wilson came up in the chill gloom of a drab, cheerless afternoon, with the bases loaded. It was tough to see the pitcher, let alone the baseball. But Arthur smote the apple full and fair.

It shot through the dusk out toward the scoreboard far left-centre, with George Burns in mad and apparent furious pursuit. But Georgie got to it somehow, else this story would have been written along entirely different lines.

The three runners had all scored when the flying figure was captured, and Stallings had actually started to smile—there in the cave.

Damon Runyon Strong for Connie Mack's New Ball Team

By DAMON RUNYON.

New York, April 29.—We opined some weeks ago, and we still opine, that Cornelius McGillicuddy is back in business once more with a mighty reckless outfit.

"Dugan to Shannon to Burns" is as we have said before, a refrain which may become quite familiar in the large league chorus before the end of the season.

Corraling but a wicked outfield when he had no more than Kopp, greatest rungetter in the league; Privy Walker, home-run buster, and Bob Roth, a slugger from Guggenville, but it looks even more vicious with young Witt in there slapping at and

HARTFORD HAS FIRST OF BIG STAKE RACES

Not many seasons back nearly all of the Grand Circuit meetings featured a $10,000 stake for trotters, but time has wrought some important changes.

This year the season will be nine weeks old before a stake of that value is staged, the first being the classic Charter Oak stake, to be raced at Hartford the week of Labor Day.

For years Detroit opened the big race season and its $10,000 M. & M. was the outstanding feature of the week. Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids were early meetings of the Grand which staged events of like value, but now all this is changed.

Following the example of Cleveland, the management of which has always frowned on events of more than $5,000 in value, the various meetings are offering practically as much money, some of them more than heretofore, but dividing it up into a larger number of events of lesser value.

Stakes of $5,000 and $2,000 are plentifully sprinkled throughout every Big Ring program. Where an association formerly gave two or three early closing events, they now stage six or seven.

The Charter Oak is by far the oldest of all the harness turf classics, having been first raced in 1837 and won that season by Director 2:17.

Last season, first honors in the event went to the Canadian stallion Chilcoot, 2:04¾, and in between among the winners are the names of some of the greatest performers of which the turf can boast, such as Hamburg Belle, St. Frisco, Billy Buch, The Harvester, R. T. C. the famous "Plow Horse," Harry Wilkes, Fairson Peter Scott, the greatest money winner among the trotters; Nut Boy, owned by Letta Crabtree Tehara and General H.

This season Ge Charter Oak is for 2:12 trotters and like practically all of the other Grand Circuit events is to be raced on the three-heat plan, $2,000 each heat and $1,000 to the winner of the race.

ROBINSON BOXES JOE EAGAN AT TRIPLE-A

Cambridge Colored Boy Subs for Ahearn in Main Bout at Opera House

RINGSIDE'S SELECTIONS

Joe Eagan to beat George Robinson.
Jimmy Duffy to beat Young Viera.
Charley Brennan to beat Mack Murphy.
Burt Jones to beat Young Reagan.

By RINGSIDE

George Robinson, dusky Cambridge middleweight, will take the place of Young Ahearn against Joe Eagan of Dorchester, in the feature bout of twelve rounds at the Armory A. A. tonight.

Ahearn was obliged to cancel the booking as a result of a fractured right hand. He suffered the injury in his recent tussle with Pal Reid.

At fire he believed he had only wrenched the member and signed to meet Battling Nelson of Brooklyn at the Commercial A. C. In that contest Ahearn suffered so much pain in his right hand that Joe McCarthy, his manager, had an X-ray taken. It revealed a bad fracture.

Ahearn has also called off his bouts with Paul Doyle and Johnny Wilson. Robinson should make a good substitute for Ahearn. He recently proved his class when he beated Tommy Robson of Malden at the Fenway A. A. At Portland last night Robinson got a draw in two six-round bouts with Frank Carbone of Brockton.

The Cambridge middleweight is a fast, clever boxer and should force Eagan to extend himself at all times.

Joe is a belting favorite, as he is almost unbeatable when he is right at top speed, and, just now, the Dorchester mixer is traveling at his best.

A peppery preliminary card has been arranged. It follows: Jimmy Duffy of Everett vs. Young Viera of New Bedford, eight rounds; Charley Brennan of Charlestown vs. Mack Murphy of South End, six rounds, and Burt Jones of Revere vs. Young Reagan of Brockton, six rounds.

Alex MacLean, one of the Armory A. A. directors and at one time manager of a flock of local boxers, has been hoard from. He's directing boxing over there and forwards a picture in which he appears all dressed up, sporting a mustache.

Entries for the State amateur boxing championships, which will be held at the Commercial A. C. May 14, under the auspices of the St. Joseph T. A. & S. close May 12 with John W. Mannice, No. 95 Cambridge street.

Now that the troubles of the clan of Dyson have been settled in the ring, Jack Leonard announces he is prepared to match the real and only legitimate Bobby Dyson against any of the New England 118-pounders.

Joe Currie of New Haven, will oppose Johnny Buckley, South Boston lightweight, in a twelve-round frolic at Brockton May 9.

RED SOX OUT TO CLEAN UP SENATORS

Pennock Likely to Do Twirling Honors Against Harper Today

Washington, April 29.—The Red Sox didn't look so good, but, at that, they carried the necessary punch that lowered the colors of the Senators, 6 to 5.

Facing the redoubtable Walter Johnson it was natural to expect the sledding would be rough, but they got the Kansas farmer in two of the nine rounds and they proved sufficient to score a hard-earned victory.

Mays was also hit hard, but from the press box it looked as though Chubby Carl was overconfident and it never did pay to trifle even with the poorest of clubs.

Two miscues by Harry Hooper and a fumble and bad peg by Jack Barry helped along the Senators, as did a costly wild pitch by Mays.

Oscar Vitt was the hitting demon, the ex-Detroiter driving in four of the Red Sox runs.

RUTH PASTES TWO.

Babe Ruth also whacked the ball for keeps, and, after he had slammed out a triple and a double, Johnson walked him under instructions from Skipper Griffith.

These orders apparently peeved Big Walter as he allowed McInnis to get a short hit over second, filling the bases. Then along came Vitt with a tremendous slam to the left field bleachers that sent three runs scampering over the plate. This happened in the eighth round and placed the Red Sox three runs to the good.

In the fourth inning the Champions bunched a triple, a double and two singles and they scored the other three runs. Two men were down when the lombardment started.

The Senators were first to break the ice, scoring two runs in the third on two singles, a fielder's choice and a wild pitch by Mays. In the seventh Agnew's double and Judge's sacrifice fly accounted for the third run.

HOOPER BUSSES IT UP.

With the score standing 5 to 3, the Senators raised some excitement by getting two runs over the fuzzier in the eighth, three singles, two fumbles by Hooper, and an infield out being responsible therefor.

In their final round the Senators turned loose some mighty wafts but Strunk pulled down Johnson's healthy fly after a long run and Ruth threw same with Judge's slam. Foster then closed the game with a roller to Barry.

Today's pitchers were listed as Pennock for Boston, and Harper for the locals.

It was learned today that Johnny Leven wants $4,000 to play short for the Senators, and, unless he comes down a shade, he may be allowed to stay away, as Griff will not part with that much money.

Yankees Coming Over 23 Strong for Series With Red Sox

When the Yankees come to Boston to help the Red Sox pry off the American League old Thursday, Manager Miller Huggins will chaperon twenty-three athletes.

So comes word from Secretary Harry Sparrow. Incidentally, Sparrow has made reservations for the New York party at the Brunswick Hotel.

Here's the roster of the Yankee party coming for battles with the Red Sox Thursday, Friday and Saturday:

Catchers—Ruel, Hannah and Baldwin, a rookie.

Pitchers—Mogridge, good old Ernie Shore, Shawkey, Quinn, Pats Schneider, who used to come a-calling with the Reds; Russell, O'Doul, a speed merchant from San Francisco; Thormahlen and Nelson.

Infielders—Pipp, Pratt, Peckinpaugh, Baker, Pewsater and Ward.

Outfielders—Duffy Lewis, Bodie, Vick, Hains and Lamar.

Secretary Larry Graver is back at the Fenway offices. With aid from Dan Considine, he will have all matters in tip-top shape for the opening. President Frazee may get in from New York late today.

Denison is covering third base for Bridge Tech in great style. If he overcomes his weakness at the bat he will be a live-wire.

Thomas, dusky right fielder on Lee McDonald's team, is a steady fielder. He is also a good stick man and has the happy faculty of coming through with the needed hit in the pinch.

John McGonigle, big noise on Everett High's pitching staff, bears watching. He is going along in great shape and getting better in every game.

Captain Hines of Hindge Tech is now playing first base for his team. If a man capable of holding down the job at the initial sack could be found, Hines would greatly help his team by returning to the outfield, which is notoriously weak.

John McGowan, first sacker on Cambridge Latin, is causing much attention by his clever all-around work. John is over the six foot mark, which helps him to pull them out of the sky. His base running and work at the bat are also above the ordinary.

The Shanahan boys are almost the whole infield for Watertown High. Bob and Art play short and third, respectively. Then, Brother Bill does most of the twirling.

Comiskeau, star of the basketball team, although not able to play in the league games on account of his age, is helping Jack McDonald with the coaching.

Lashaway lost a rough game against St. George's last Saturday, after pitching alright ball for ten innings, all he got was a tie. No pitcher can be expected to win when his mates make twelve errors.

Seavey, Newton High's backstop, handles his pitcher in great style. He has Sawyer and Owen showing to the best advantage.

Gregg Conley, captain of last year's football team, is now playing in the outfield for St. John's prep. He was a candidate for third base, but as Ben Sammon, former Commerces and Dorchester star, was found to be a strong infielder, Conley was shifted to the outfield.

Tom Dooley, University of Brookline High, is making a fine showing with the Hindge College team. He is giving the other candidates a good run for the second base position.

RITCHIE ALMOST LASTS IT OUT WITH BENNY

Referee Brennan Stops Newark Battle Forty Seconds Before Close—All Leonard

By DAMON RUNYON.

Newark, N. J., April 29.—With forty seconds left to go to the final bell, Referee Jim Brennan pulled Willie Ritchie from under a shower of Benny Leonard's punches, saving the former lightweight champion from a count to knock-out at the hands of the present title-holder.

The California boy was helpless on the ropes. He had been half asleep throughout the last two minutes and twenty seconds of the round after Leonard had clipped him on the jaw with a right and then a left.

He had taken a licking from the very start of the fight. Leonard did not show himself much of a workman, as he should have stopped the former champion before he did. Ritchie is not the fighter he used to be by a long way. He had nothing left but gameness.

In the seventh round he was so wide open and helpless that Leonard was accused of "holding him up," when he failed to put over the finishing punch, but as a matter of fact Benny simply was not able to do it.

Six weeks ago Ritchie outpointed Leonard in a sensational four-round fight in San Francisco.

It was the first time Ritchie was ever stopped. He won the lightweight title from Ad Wolgast, No. 28, 1912. Wolgast lost on a foul, but those at the ringside declared that the Michigan boxcats committed the foul to save himself from an unmerciful trouncing.

There was a long stage wait last night but at 10:10 p. m. Ritchie came on the boards. He was attended by Clay Turner, Fred Murphy, Henry Steffen, his brother, and Dan Geary.

Leonard followed five minutes later. Billy Gibson, his manager; Charley Leonard, George Engle and Murray Seaman were with him.

MITCHELL CLAIMS CUBS WILL WIN THE PENNANT AGAIN

By FRED MITCHELL
(President and Manager of the Cubs.)

Three elements should win the 1919 National League pennant for the Cubs. They are.

1. Pitchers.
2. Catchers.
3. General team balance.

I do not think but I would trade the pennant to bring most of the Cubs stable for any club in major league baseball. Of course, a better staff might be selected from all the pitchers available at some period in the past, but I do not believe a better corps ever worked in any one team at any one time.

There is only one improvement that I could desire in the Cubs' pitching staff. I wish we had another right handed relief ball pitcher. The fact that Douglas and Hendrix both are southpaws as a slight drawback, but we have so much more power in the box than any other National League club that we are very safe in this department.

As for the catchers, it hardly is necessary for me to comment upon Killefer's skill. His generality is appreciated by managers and critics as well as by the fans. Wilson has been showing fine Spring with speed and power. He is a smart ballplayer. He has already had a smattering of Inside baseball that is very pleasing.

REMEMBER HANK GOWDY.

He's chief fault just now is not batting the game seriously enough, but I think this will wear off as does along. O'Farrell is a much improved player than he was a year ago. A season in Buffalo where upon his return he looked upon baseball as a very serious business.

The infield is well taken care of. Merkle is a star at first base. Weilman has developed into a player to look at the fourth base game. There is not a player on the club who can play third as well as Deal. He is a wizard at fielding bunts, and can throw from any position on the field. Pick is a wonderful second baseman. He is fast and accurate. Rollie Zeider is a valuable utility infielder.

As for the outfield, I think it is the best I have ever had. Paskert is a wonderful fielder and a dependable hitter. We have secured Flack from Buffalo. He is a fine outfielder and batter. Hollocher is a star in the making. He has developed a great deal of skill in the outfield. Kilduff and Lear also can play infield holes.

CLEVER UTILITY PLAYERS.

Take Barber, for instance. He can play an acceptable first base and has shown a great deal of skill in the outfield. Kilduff and Lear also can play infield holes.

The pitching staff of the season, for all around ability, consists of Vaughn, Tyler, Douglas and McCabe as regulars, with Hendrix and Packard as relief pitchers. Packard is a recruit from Buffalo. He has a world of stuff, but is inexperienced. Hendrix is a southpaw and is a valuable man to have around. He is a good pinch hitter and can play the outfield and first base. Vaughn and Tyler are two of baseball's best pitchers. Douglas is a wonderful pitcher in absence. A few games from now I may mention the different pitchers winning and losing a pennant.

I am still debating what to do with Hornsby. He is too good a man to keep out of the game, and I cannot afford to let off a right handed hitter to help a rival club. If Hornsby can recover his batting eye he will be invaluable to Barber in the outfield and still retain the power to knock the ball right handed.

BEARS GIANTS AND DODGERS.

The Giants and Brooklyn I think will crowd us most for first place honors. They have a good hitting and fielding club, but I do not believe it is as well balanced as our team.

I look for the Reds to come into the fight for the pennant, but cannot see where they will get enough assistance from McGraw's other hurlers.

Brooklyn can hit and has pitchers. I cannot see where the other clubs are likely to endanger our prospects.

I cannot see why the Cubs will not repeat. The more I think of it the more I believe we will. We are fortified in all departments, not with one man for each job, but a capable substitute ready to step into every position.

The club is well trained and is prepared to play good ball.

BOBBY JOSEPHS HAS BIG EDGE ON DELMONT

By RINGSIDE

Al Delmont veteran North End boxer is duly probably convinced that Bobby Josephs, Tufts senior, is the better judge of boxing after the latter's victory over Delmont at the Arena last night.

It was Josephs right from start to finish. He had every round. As a result the task of Referee Jerry More was an easy one.

A couple of lads added to the festivities, when a delegation of citizens handed a diamond studded locket to Josephs. All he must got was a sound drubbing and a flock of boxing which are not any good for bruised muscles.

Delmont fought a defensive battle. He tried to ward off Josephs blows and sometimes succeeded. Most of the time, however, Josephs caught the Delmont guard and landed at will. Delmont's only chance was to land a knockout punch, but he was unable to get over the right hand smash that Josephs was looking for.

Josephs showed a world of improvement over his last appearance here. He has developed a left hook that is a corker. He used it frequently and with telling effect. Delmont's face was a mass of bruises when the bout was over.

Josephs is now matched to box Jack Dempsey, who is also a Tufts student, at the Arena next Monday night. Dempsey is a clever boxer and a hard hitter. He has been boxing in the Middle West and has had a number of bouts with good men. Josephs will have a hard task on his hands to defeat Dempsey.

VERMONT NINE BLANKS WEARERS OF CRIMSON

The University of Vermont nine, which has defeated Harvard in baseball, football and basketball, added another victim to its list of victories this afternoon when it defeated the Crimson nine by the score of 5 to 0. Ellis pitched for Vermont and allowed but three hits. Smith was the downfall of Harvard batters, he striking out nine men in the five innings he pitched.

Tennis on Jarvis Field

The Harvard and Tufts tennis teams were to clash on Jarvis Field this afternoon. Play embraced four singles matches and two doubles matches.

This is the first of a series of articles which Mr. Corbett is writing concerning the pugilistic career of Jake Kilrain, one of the greatest heavyweights that America—or any other country—ever produced.

Jake Kilrain's rise to immortality as a ringman is traceable to the day when a fellow-millworker said, with insinuating intent:

"You big country gawk!"

My own career can be said to have had its real beginning with that day to me. For years when I whipped Kilrain in a personal encounter. It was I that [illegible] gave no promise beyond the confines of Cliftondale and eventually joined the way for a meeting with the mighty Jake.

This Day in History—April 29, 1919

THIS is the anniversary of the entry into Orleans in 1429 of Joan of Arc, the maid whose courage rescued France from the English invader. Joan, who believed she was doing the bidding of God, was betrayed by her own people, and was burned at the stake by the English after a mockery of a trial.

Mars Meets the New Moon

TODAY Mars and the moon are in conjunction, but both are too close to the sun to be visible. This new moon occurs with the moon in perigee, or at its nearest approach to the earth, when its tide-raising power is noticeably increased at the moment when its attraction and the sun's act together.

ATLANTIC GULF MAKES BIG GAIN

Oils Are Weak and U. S. Steel Advances on Large Transactions

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

The strength which characterized the market from the opening was maintained in New York at midday, and in the afternoon prices were near the day's best level, with U. S. Steel showing more than a point gain and being bought in large lots. Atlantic Gulf was also more than nine points, having had the most sensational advance of any stock on the list. Oils had been weak all the morning but rallied somewhat after midday. Shipping issues were the strongest group. There was a better tone to metals in the late session. Several gas stocks were strong, including Ohio Cities. After the declaration of the Hide and Leather dividend, both preferred and common weakened, rising on persistent reports that the dividend was to be increased from 1¾ to 3 per cent. The last quarterly compared with $2.56 for the preceding three months, and $3.76 for the first 1918 quarter.

Trading was of large volume, transactions up to 1 o'clock totalling nearly a million shares.

LARGEST AFTERNOON GAINS.

Largest gains in the afternoon included U. S. Steel, 3¾ at 101¾, following sold as high as 102; Atlantic Gulf, 8½ at 154¾, after selling as high as 155; Industrial Alcohol, 3¾ at 153¾; Marine preferred, 1¾ at 120¾; common, 1¾ at 42; International Corporation, 2¾ at 87¾; American Steel Foundries, 3¼ at 98; Associated Dry Goods, 1 at 45; Crucible, 1¾ at 70¾; Ohio Cities Gas, 1¾ at 44¾, and Texas and Pacific, 1¾ at 45¾.

Among declines were Hide & Leather preferred, 3¾ at 113¾, common, at 24¾; Mexican Petroleum, 2¾ at 175¾; Royal Dutch, old, 2¾ at 111¾, and new, 2 at 110¾.

SOLD AT RECORD HIGH.

Sinclair Oil, Hide and Leather issues, American Steel Foundries and Railway Steel Spring sold at record highest prices during the morning but the year were reached by Atlantic Gulf, Marine issues, Cuba Cane and Allis-Chalmers.

Among the weakest stocks were Royal Dutch issues, Texas Pacific, Union and International Paper. They receded from nearly two to more than four points before noon. Royal Dutch was erratic, advancing a point and later showing a point loss.

PUBLIC DEMAND UNABATED.

The demand for stocks on the part of the public was unabated when the New York exchange began business, buying orders from the West and South arriving in volume overnight. New England speculators were also an important factor. Oils and shipping issues were early favorites. Atlantic Gulf making a spectacular advance within a few minutes. Marine issues were also conspicuous. Sinclair Oil was the strongest and most prominent oil on the list. Other oil stocks were eagerly bought. American Sugar rising more than one and Cuba Cane two points. Hide and Leather issues were strong and also active for a time.

BOSTON MARKET BEGAN FIRM.

There was nothing in morning news, whether domestic or European, which had any influence upon trading.

The Boston market was firm at the start, with American Bosch Magneto the opening feature. It sold at a record high price of 47, the latest sale then confirmed to advance, showing more than five points gain in the first hour. Another issue to sell at a record high during the forenoon was Punta Alegre. Fairbanks sold at the previous record high. Atlantic Gulf attained a highest for the year, advancing nearly five points here. Food stocks were comparatively inactive. American Telephone was strong. There was little trading in coppers. Massachusetts Gas declined more than a point on a few sales.

Trading on the local exchange was broader and more active than for the week. Satisfaction over the prospect of ultimate resuming control of communication wires was reflected by the advance of American Telephone to 93, the Old Colony issues and New England Telephone 5s at 93; Bosch Magneto at 46½; Fairbanks 5s at 62¾, after selling at 63, the highest price of 62½; United Fruit 1¾ at 173¾, and United Shoe 1¾ at 53¾.

COTTON BUYING ACTIVE AT MARKET OPENING

New York, April 29.—The strength in the Liverpool cotton market over the American holiday and continued strength today led to a revival of active buying at the opening of the New York cotton market, with prices often at an advance of 12 to 40 points. Realizing sales were heavy as the market touched new high levels for the season, but offerings were largely absorbed by Liverpool, trade and fresh public buying which soon after the call sent prices to still higher figures.

Opening prices were: May, sold 27.45, new 28.90, July, sold 27.10, new 27.10; August, new 26.40; October, sold 25.90, new 25.40; December, new 24.75; January, new 24.70; March, new 24.60. Spot, steady.

SUGAR SCARCITY IS PROBABLE THIS YEAR

Foreign Demand Will Exceed the Total for 1917 and 1918

Foreign demand for sugar is so great that there will be a shortage in the supply for jobbers and wholesalers later in the year and the Food Administration has already warned the trade of what may be expected. The foreign demand for 1919 is estimated at 6,500,000 tons. This is enormous when it is remembered 1918's exports amounted to 1,150,000 tons and that those of 1917 aggregated 451,221. In other words exports of refined sugar this year will exceed by the total for both 1917 and 1918. Tonnage allotted for this month alone amounts to 90,000 tons, according to the Sugar Equalization Board.

While at first glance it looked the demand for sugar, in most regions, in some parts of the world is greater, there will be some time before the output there can become normal. Meanwhile there will be an increased demand for sugar from the East Indies, Cuba and this country.

In regions where sugar is now being produced there has been great stimulation for the industry. The tendency has been to increase beet sugar acreage in the United States as far as possible, while in Cuba more land is under cane cultivation than ever before.

Cuban planters have prospered as much as any other class, from war demands. Their crop for 1918 amounted to about $325,000,000 in value. This year's crop will be worth, it is estimated, approximately $492,000,000.

Steel Production Diminishing

The diminution of the steel production has been marked this year and is due to a withholding of orders until there is more certainty as to what prices producers will be able to maintain and to the cancellation of orders which had been on corporation books. In reviewing operations so far in 1919, it is stated authoritatively that while mills operated at 87 per cent. capacity in January, they operated at only 77 per cent. in March, and in the past week they operated between 40 per cent. and 45 per cent. within another thirty days.

Washington Headquarters, Soldiers' Service Bureau, April 29.—Former service men from Massachusetts and the other New England States, learning of the work and home plans in connection with the proposed Soldiers' Settlement Act through the Soldiers' Service Bureau, are awaiting the legislative action necessary before taking up homestead claims.

That the Department of the Interior has been deluged with inquiries from soldiers, sailors and marines, eager to begin life on a farm, was made known to this headquarters today by Secretary Lane.

HEROES WERE FARMERS.

Backing of the Soldiers' Settlement Act by the Hearst newspapers throughout the country has also brought to the department a host of inquiries from other sections of the United States. A tabulation of all the inquiries received showed that 44.2 per cent. of the service men had been engaged in farming at the time of enlistment.

More than one-half of the applicants wanted to do general farming; 27.6 per cent. preferred live stock; 7.2 per cent. want to go in for truck farming and 7.2 per cent. wished to specialize on fruit.

BAY STATE LEADS U. E.

How eager service men are to procure homesteads under the proposed Soldiers' Settlement Act was revealed by the 52.5 per cent. of the applicants who expressed a willingness to work anywhere in the United States. About 47.2 per cent. preferred to work with in their own state.

Massachusetts leads the New England states in the number of service men seeking homesteads, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont follow, respectively.

Petition to the Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy to send Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Home with Six Months' Pay

Sign this petition, get your friends to sign it, and forward it to the Boston American, 80 Summer st., Boston, Mass.

To the Honorable Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War;
To the Honorable Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy;

The undersigned respectfully urge you to return to their homes as soon as possible the soldiers, sailors and marines who have accomplished so brilliantly every object America had in the war.

We urge, also that you obtain the necessary authority to pay these men their military wages for six months, or for some sufficient period after their discharge from the army until they can obtain useful and remunerative employment.

We urge this as an act of simple justice by a great nation to its heroes.

NEW PICTURES IN HOME TOWN THEATRES

Movie Lovers Have Wide Variety of Films to Choose From

The latest and best screen dramas and comedies will be found at the following home town theatres:

ALLSTON THEATRE, ALLSTON—Will show for the last half of this week Shirley Mason in "The Screaming Shadow" and Ward in her big success, "Common Clay," and the Photo-Play Magazine and other good short pictures.

REGENT THEATRE, ARLINGTON — On Wednesday and Thursday the bill will be headed by Charles Ray in "The Sheriff's Son" and Fannie Ward in "Common Clay." Other pictures will be shown on the same bill.

HOME THEATRE, EVERETT—Features on Wednesday and Thursday are Corrine Griffith in "The Unbeliever," and the seventh episode picture is William Russell in "Where the West Begins." The latest Kinogram and other pictures complete this bill.

BRIGHTON THEATRE, BRIGHTON—Will feature for Wednesday Gladys Leslie in "The Beloved Impostor." Eddie Polo in his latest film and the latest Mutt and Jeff comedy.

CITY THEATRE, BROCKTON—Offers for the last half of this week an extraordinarily good film. There will also be an all-star bill of four vaudeville acts.

STRAND THEATRE, BROCKTON—The last half of this week Pearl White will be seen in a feature picture Evelyn Nesbit in "Thou Shalt Not" and other good motion pictures.

CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE, EAST BOSTON—Shows Mitchell Lewis in "The Code of the Yukon." North woods story, and June Elvidge in "The Quickening Flame" and other new pictures.

FRANKLIN PARK THEATRE, DORCHESTER—This popular theatre was hardly able to accommodate the vast crowds who desired to see Julia Dean in her latest starring photoplay, "Ruling Passions." Charlie Chaplin is one of his latest productions. Jack Hanley is on the bill and four acts of vaudeville.

BROADWAY THEATRE, EVERETT—The Broadway will head its bill for Wednesday and Thursday with Bessie Barriscale in "Something to Do," "Spot Light Sadie" and the latest Kinogram News.

FELLSWAY THEATRE, MEDFORD—Will show an excellent bill of the latest and best screen productions, including a comedy and the latest news films.

MEDFORD THEATRE, MEDFORD—Will feature for Wednesday and Thursday Marguerite Clayton in "Home on a Hill" and Norma Talmadge in "Safety Curtain" and others.

DUDLEY THEATRE, ROXBURY—The bill at the Dudley should most assuredly prove a day with Billie Burke in "Good Gracious Annabelle" and Dorothy Gish in "Peppy Polly" as the feature photoplays. For the last half of the week Marie Doro will be seen in "The Girl Behind the Gun," Fred Stone in "Get Your Gun" and others.

SHAWMUT THEATRE, ROXBURY—The Shawmut is now paying the "Price of a Mother's Heart," "The Hollow of Her Hand," and Madeleine Traverse in "Vanishing Trails" and the Pathe and Mutt Jeff demonstrators' contest Wednesday evening.

HYDE PARK THEATRE, HYDE PARK—Will feature for today for the last time Fannie Ward in "Common Clay." This picture will be shown in seven reels and is a screen version of the famous play. Other pictures will be seen on this program with a feature picture.

OLYMPIA THEATRE, SOMERVILLE—Shows for Wednesday and Thursday Mabel Normand in "The Camebric Mask" and Charles Chaplin in "The Bank" and others.

GORMAN'S THEATRE, ROSLINDALE—The management of this theatre has been able to patrons the best and cleanest pictures and will show an all-star picture, comedy and other new pictures.

NORWOOD THEATRE, NORFOLK DOWNS —Will feature on Wednesday Harry Morey in "Virginia Running" and on Thursday "Her Fatal Marriage," and on Thursday Jack Pickford in "Mate, Aide, Mother."

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN APRIL 29, 1919. BOSTON.

Distinguished Service

The Yankee Division parade put the Boston Police Department to a severe test. That test was met in superb manner.

The influx of visitors from all over New England, the crowded hours of the parade itself and the homeward rush of the biggest things in Boston history combined to form a problem difficult for any metropolitan police force.

The Boston police proved themselves more than equal to the long, hard task. In addition to their general efficiency in a thousand and one details of the whole parade period, there was a gratifying courtesy that reflected all the more credit upon the department.

The record-breaking crowd was not easy to handle. It included tens of thousands of strangers, old and young, from the New England countryside. These were unaccustomed to city ways, traffic rules and the quick, brisk conduct of urban life. They had myriad questions to ask in a city whose winding streets make guidance all the more complicated.

The crowd, both from within and without, was eager and enthusiastic, ready to be impatient of necessary restraint along the parade route.

Infinite tact was necessary to the best policing of this enormous holiday mass. The Boston police combined tact, or everyday politeness, with business-like control and efficiency. The streams of humanity, which flowed in and out of the city, were kept running with smooth currents.

This is a mighty fine advertisement for Boston. It spreads good report of our city to every corner of New England. It is another Boston asset.

As a matter of fact, the police handling of Boston crowds through the parade period was superior to the boasted efficiency of New York's "Finest." When the Twenty-seventh Division paraded in Manhattan the New York police handled their crowds ably, it is true, but not with the same unfailing courtesy and politeness that the Boston police displayed last week. The Boston bluecoat had all the efficiency of his New York brother, but lubricated it with an oil of courtesy that eased points of contact.

Compliments are due Police Commissioner Edwin U. Curtis and Superintendent Michael H. Crowley, as executive officers of the department. But the general public came into direct touch with the great body of patrolmen. The credit for the splendid parade time record goes to the entire department.

Italy Played a Decisive Part in the Great War

Italy's action in quitting the Peace Conference should not be judged too harshly.

It should not be forgotten that when the war broke out the Central Empires based their calculations of victory upon two prime factors.

One of these was the expectation that Great Britain would remain neutral.

The other was the expectation that Italy would remain neutral.

The Central Empires not only expected that Italy would remain neutral, but also expected that Italian neutrality would be a benevolent neutrality, favoring the Central Powers.

Italy, as a matter of fact, did remain neutral until March, 1915, but the neutrality practiced by the Italian Government was benevolent toward the Allies and not toward the Central Powers.

Very early in the conflict the Italian Government gave the Allied Governments to understand that Italy under no circumstances would side with the Central Empires.

Had Italy not done so it would have been necessary for the French to have maintained a large force in order to guard against a possible attack through the Italian Alps.

Had the French thus been compelled to divide their forces in the beginning of the war German armies would almost certainly have broken through the French lines in the north and completed their rush upon Paris.

Nor was this the only service which Italy rendered, even before she made common cause with the Allies. The policy of Italy in denouncing the Triple Alliance and in maintaining a benevolent neutrality toward the Allies compelled the Austro-Hungarian Government to maintain a very large force upon the border facing Italy.

Not less than four hundred thousand Austro-Hungarian troops were thus held idle during the full time when the Russian offensive, under the command of the Grand Duke Nicholas, was being rushed across Galicia and was threatening Germany in East and West Prussia.

Rightly esteeming the Italian troops as better fighting material than the Russians, the flower of the Austro-Hungarian army was kept upon the Italian border, while the inferior forces recruited from Bohemia, Galicia and the discontented Slav and Ruthenian provinces were sent to stem the Russian attack.

The net result was that the Russian invaders overwhelmed the inferior Austro-Hungarian forces and thus compelled the German General Staff to send reinforcements from the western front, which forced weakening of the German offensive and resulted in the final check along the line of the Marne and the Aisne.

The effectiveness of the assistance given to the Allies by Italy is beyond any dispute.

And it is quite natural that the Italians should now demand the price which Russia, France and England promised to pay for that assistance.

The Italian point of view is that the treaty of London, made in 1915, is just as binding upon the other Allies as any other treaty made either before or after the beginning of the war.

We do not mean to say that there is no room for argument over the differences which have arisen between Italy and the representatives of Great Britain, France and the United States at Paris.

What we do mean is this: That it is wrong to assume hastily that the Italians have no real standing in the court of the world's public opinion.

HOT WATER BOOM

Road salesmen of hot water heaters report a rushing business in the "moonshine" whiskey districts of the South, especially West Virginia. The artless moonshineers are buying heaters with double copper coils, which are easily convertible into illicit stills. One salesman sold two carloads of "heaters" in one West Virginia county alone. Revenue officers are greatly interested in this sudden passion of the mountaineers for hot water equipment. They are watchfully waiting the use of the same. The revenue officer finds a hidden meaning in Longfellow's "Psalm of Life," especially in the verse which runs:

"Let us, then, be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate;
STILL achieving, STILL pursuing,
Learn to labour and to wait."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Vivisection

Editor Boston American:

There are indications that renewed attempts will before long be made in the United States to put upon the statute books of some of the States laws which will make it possible to subject the experimenter with living animals to governmental supervision.

Events are persistently drawing public attention to this freedom of the scientists from the law which otherwise guards our dumb dependents from man's willfulness. The experiments was rate by Professor John B. Watson, related to a meeting in New York city of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, raised a storm of protest throughout the land. This investigator consecutively deprived a rat of its eyes, its olfactory nerve, and its sense of hearing, from its feet, and otherwise robbed it of the use of its sense organs in order to discover a "clash sense."

The scientist does not claim the justification of the usefulness in alleviating human suffering for his inquiries, fraught though they may be with exquisite agonies for his dumb subjects. His position is thus stated by a German physiologist, Dr. Herman of Zurich: "No true investigator in his researches thinks of their practical utilization; the advancement of knowledge, and not practical utility to medicine, is the true and straightforward object of all vivisection." This view has been upheld by American scientists.

It is the exposing of dumb creatures to the mercies of men holding such views as these which has made the advocates of vivisection reform in the United States insist upon some degree of supervision and restriction.

Ye TOWN GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

I HAD just started to work,
AND HAD put the paper in the typewriter,
AND JEAN came over,
WITH HER little girl Jerry,
AND JEAN said:
"I HOPE we won't disturb you."
AND I said certainly not.
AND JERSY went over to a table,
AND PULLED some books onto the floor,
AND PICKED out a thin one,
AND CAME over to me and said:
"UNCLE KEN, read the book."
AND I tried to drive her off,
BUT I couldn't do it,
AND SHE crawled up on my lap,
AND PUT her feet in my typewriter,
AND REPEATED:
"UNCLE KEN, read the book,"
AND HANDED it to me,
AND THE title of the book
WAS "THE Rocking Horse"
AND IT was a lot of poems,
BY CHRISTOPHER Morley,
AND I read the first one,
AND JERRY listened,
BUT SHE hadn't any idea
WHAT IT was all about,
BUT IT pleased me,
AND I turned the page,
AND READ the second one,
AND JERRY still listened,
AND THEN I said:
"IF WE'RE going to read them all,
"LET'S GET in a big chair."
AND WE moved,
AND I kept on reading,
AND TURNING the pages,
AND JERRY lay there,
WITH HER eyes wide open,
AND PRETENDING she knew,
WHAT THEY were all about,
BUT SHE didn't,
UNTIL WE got to the one,
WHERE CHRISTOPHER said,
"HE'D LIKE to have a lot of ice wagons,"
"DOWN ALL the sun-cursed byways of the town."
AND "TRAILED by grimy toes,
"THEIR RAGGED shirts half off them with excitement,
"DABBLING TOES and fingers in our leakage,
"A LUCKY few sitting with the driver."
AND AFTER that
"THE PINCHED white cheeks and their pathetic gladness,
"THEN WE would know that arms were made for aching."
AND JERRY went to sleep on that,
WITH A little bit of a smile,
AND LAY there,
AND I went on and read,
HALF THROUGH the book
AND FORGOT about my work,
AND DIDN'T care,
AND LAID aside the book,
AND LOOKED at Jerry,
AND WAS glad,
THAT HER cheeks were pink,
AND JERRY awoke,
AND WE put on her little coat,
AND SHE went home,
AND I thanked Jean,
FOR BRINGING her over,
AND I went to thank Christopher,
FOR HIS book of poems,
AND TO tell him
THAT I'M going to finish it
ON THE very first day,
THAT JEAN can spare Jerry,
FOR A couple of hours.

I THANK you.

WIVES WHO CAN FILL JOB OF MARRIAGE

By Winifred Black.

The married woman was just going to pour out another cup of tea for herself when she happened to glance at her wrist watch.

"Oh!" she said, "I cannot wait a minute. Jim will be getting anxious, and when he gets anxious he fidgets, and if there's anything I hate on earth it's a fidgety man."

And before we could say aye, yes or no she had pulled down her veil and adjusted her hat, slipped on her gloves and was gone.

"There," said her dearest friend, "that's what I like about Jane. She is always on to her job and always attends strictly to it."

"Job?" echoed the prettiest girl. "I thought she was just married."

"She is married," said the dearest friend, "and if you don't call marriage a job, you don't know much about it. Sometimes it is a good job and sometimes it is a bad one, but it is always a job, and real clever women make a profession of it."

Part of Her Job

"Jane gave up a fine position when she married. She has married a good man. He gives her a beautiful home, plenty of leisure and a great deal of affection and confidence, a fine position and the comfort and support of a good man's love. Jane thinks it's her job to show him she appreciates it.

"Jim hates to come home from the office and find his wife out to a tea or a meeting or a matinee, so Jane always makes it a point to be at home when Jim gets there.

"Why not? It is part of her job.

"Sometimes she has to miss the last act of a good play, or get away without hearing all of the latest gossip—but, then, sometimes she could not go to the matinee at all before she was married, and she didn't expect to—she kept office hours. So she keeps office hours now just exactly as if she were being paid for it.

Do You Agree?

Why not? Is it not her business to make the man who takes such good care of her happy and contented and pleased with her and with his home and with himself?

"Of course it is, and it's good business, too. No man can do good work downtown unless he is happy uptown, or over town, or wherever it is he lives when he's at home. No man can get very far in the world with a selfish, silly, self-centred wife frittering away her time in idle amusement, instead of helping him out as a good partner should.

"I am for Jane and Jane's kind of a wife. Some day you are going to hear of Jimmy somewhere in a high position, and one of the reasons he gets there will be that Jane had sense enough to stick to her job."

I agreed with everything that Jane's friend said. I wonder if you do?

—BUT VICTORY NOTES—

Queens Named Mary

It is rather remarkable that of the Queens named Mary in English history her present Majesty is the only one who has attained her present age while Queen. Mary the First, Queen Regnant, died at forty-two, Mary the Second, Queen Regnant with William the Third, died at thirty-two. Mary of Modena, though she lived to be sixty, passed into exile with James the Second at thirty; while Mary Queen of Scots was executed at forty-five. It may be noted further that her Majesty shares with King William the Third's consort the distinction of a purely English education and upbringing.

"COOTIES" CARRY DEATH PLAGUE

New discoveries have been made about "cooties," the soldiers' pest, which show that they are not only a very real menace. A scientific article in next Sunday's paper tells why scientists are studying so patiently every obtainable fact about them, and why all our returning troops are so carefully delousted—the arrival of a few war cooties here might sweep America with a death plague which would kill four out of every five of its victims. Earth's Greatest Trial
A Wonder Landlord
Fight Italy? Hardly

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1919.

The Kaiser that was will be brought to judgment. He is to have a separate trial, his officers go before a lower court. Even Justice pulls the bandage from her eyes for a second and says:

"Hello, here's a Kaiser, something special for him."

He will be tried, not for CRIME, but for "supreme offence against international morality and sanctity of treaties." Elaborate use of words there.

Either the Kaiser committed murder when he got ready and declared war, or he didn't.

It will be a fine trial. Each of five nations, the United States, England, France, Italy and Japan, will name a judge. Where will they find a Burke, with a speech of impeachment to make ladies faint in the galleries. And where will you find a newspaperman as good as Macauley to describe the great speech?

The world never saw a trial to compare with that of the former Kaiser.

The trial of Louis XVI was a farce. The trial of Charles First was a single handed lynching by Cromwell.

This will be a different performance. They will let the Kaiser dress as he pleases, presumably. Who can doubt that he will appear in his uniform as commander-in-chief of the armies of the Prussian kingdom and the German empire, with his moustache curled upward, and whatever fighting blood he has inherited from the Hohenzollerns flaming in his eyes.

He will look at one American, one Italian, one Frenchman, one Japanese and one Englishman, picked out by his own first cousin, King George of Great Britain.

He will stare at those five faces, and the fifteen hundred million human beings that live on this earth will stare with him. For the first time in all the world's history the peoples of the world will judge one of the leaders of the world.

Never was there such a trial, and never probably will there be another. And never since Lucifer was there such a fall.

The sympathy of millions of Americans, in and out of union labor, are with Samuel Gompers, implied and in serious danger.

After many years of hard work, Mr. Gompers owns little else than the clothes that he wears, the small salary that workmen pay him and the satisfaction of having faithfully served million. The work that he has done in any other line would have made him a rich man. But if, in other work, he had made a hundred millions, he would BE A POOR MAN compared with the Samuel Gompers who lies with broken bones, the result of an unfortunate accident.

Mr. Gompers worked hard and faithfully for working men all his life, hard and faithfully for this government in the war. His sympathy and affection of his fellow citizens are with him.

This is VERY sudden. The United Press calmly predicts that Italy may find herself in the same category as Germany, Austria, Russia, etc.," if she does not sign the League of Nations. The same agency says that if Italy takes Fiume she may find herself the first nation at war with the League of Nations. Let us hope that that is nonsense.

If Italy had not held back Austria and Germany, protecting the southeastern frontier of France, even before the entering of the war, the Germans might have been in Paris and THEIR peace treaty might have been signed long ago.

Nations do queer things, but it will be many a year before a UNITED STATES weapon at least will be aimed at anything Italian.

There is a strange landlord at large, so extraordinary that he is an interesting to the whole American, perhaps, as the trouble about Fiume, or Mexico's dislike of the Monroe Doctrine.

This landlord is C. C. Blakeley. Write it on your tablets and remember him in your benedictions.

He lives in Michigan. Grove Furd's State, and rents apartments to his fellow citizens. Here are extracts from his rules:

No cats, no dogs allowed.

When rent is paid in advance each child born in the apartment will have placed to its credit in the Commercial and Savings Bank of Albion, Michigan, the sum of one month's rent at date of christening.

Each apartment has garage accommodation for one car, with individual stall and lock.

And "three months rent allowed any tenant adopting a French or Belgian war child."

Bring on your white blackbirds and see if they can compare with this American landlord.
